JACK ANDERSON SAYS: President expects South Vietnam to take over war in two years; railroad scandal could be brewing on Chicago and Northwestern; its chairman, Ben Heineman, is playing the coglomerate game.

NUMBER 133

ROBIN DENISE LIZENBEE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lizenbee of 339 East Gladys and Todd Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Mitchell, of route two Essex, were named Little Mr. and Miss Western Saturday night. There were 38 entries.

Sikeston Girl, Essex Boy Jaycee Rodeo Tot Royalty

Little broomstick cowboys filed slowly across the stage while surrounding parents and friends waited anxiously. Shining six-shooters and cowboy hats were commonplace Saturday night at the annual Little Mr. and Miss Western contest.

The event was the kickoff for the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo Thursday through Sunday.

Little Miss Western this year is Robin Denise Lizenbee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lizenbee of 339 East Gladys. Little Mr. Western is Todd Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Mitchell, of route two, Essex.

Other finalists in the contest were Todd Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Baker; Michael Keasler II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Keasler; Sherri Lee Skelton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Skelton; and Stacy Lee Nowel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kearby Noel.

The winners received a trophy, a $5 prize and will be in the rodeo parade, first alternatives received $3 and passes to the rodeo, second alternates received passes to the rodeo and all other contestants will receive passes.

Last year's winners were Sheri Lynn Hagy and Bradley Dewitt. This Year's Little Mr. Western is a cousin of last year's winner.

The judges for the event were Wayne Martin, president of the Cape Girardeau Jaycees and his wife, and Jerry Reynolds Cape Girardeau, past vice president of the Missouri Jaycees and his wife. Other contestants were: Laura Sellers, Brian Dale Beaird, Michael Buchanan, Anna Marie Bussman, Lisa Callow, Brian Wade Campbell, Glenn Collom, Cathy Crouthers Doster, Kimberly Gravett, Gorman Kenneth Hartlein, Cheryl Hodges, Joey Hubbert,

Perryville Girl Dies of Car Accident Injuries

Miss Marjorie Koeper, 17, Perryville, died in St. Lukes hospital, St. Louis, Saturday at 6:15 a.m., from injuries in an automobile accident at 11:15 p.m. July 9 on highway 61, one mile north of Perryville. She suffered head injuries.

She was a passenger in a 1967 Plymouth, driven by Richard Eracker, 18, Perryville. The Eracker car pulled on the highway from a side road and struck in the rear by a 1962 Chevrolet, driven by Ronald Berkbugler, 17, Perryville, who the patrol charged came over a hill at high speed.

The Eracker car left the road and struck a tree and the Berkbugler car went into a ditch and overturned.

Eight were injured in four area accidents Sunday. Three Dexter persons were injured in an accident Sunday at 10 a.m., on route ZZ, four miles southwest of Dexter.

A 1961 Oldsmobile, driven by Mary Edith White, 62, pulled from a drive into the path of a 1969 Ford, driven by David Eldred, 24, the patrol said. Injured in the Eldred car were Brenda Eldred, age not available, neck injuries and cuts on her knee; Lilly Shantz, 76, chest and back injuries, and George Shantz, 76, chest and back injuries.

All were taken to Doctors hospital in Poplar Bluff.

He was born in Portageville, Jan. 16, 1934.

Other survivors are his wife, Medeline Stafford and three children, Cassandra, Cynthia and Christopher; a sister, Mrs. Betty Lou Bixler, Bloomington, Ill.; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Adecock, Sikeston; and his paternal grandfather, John C. Stafford, Risco.

Large Vote Expected In Tuesday Primary

BENTON — Campaign trails that have been unwinding for months in Scott County draw to a close today for Tuesday's primary election.

Officials expect a large vote will be cast by the 14,000 registered voters in Scott County.

More than 600 absentee ballots have been mailed from the county clerk's office. Of these 578 have been returned.

Scott county has been the scene of interesting and sometimes heated campaigning with six contests for office. Polls in the county will open at 6 a.m. and remain open until 7 p.m.

Sikeston precincts and polling places are ward one, precinct one, police station; ward one, precinct two, Ethridge; ward two, precinct one, Davis Chevrolet; ward two, precinct two, Lincoln school; ward three, precinct one, old Sikeston Motor Company garage; ward three, precinct two, Lewis Furniture on West Malone; ward four, precinct one, Armory, and ward four, precinct two, Imperial Bowling Lanes.

Out-county precincts and polling places are Commerce, city hall; Diehlstadt, usual place; Lusk, usual place; Blodgett, city hall; McMullin, gin office; Salcedo, Springs Store; Miner, city hall; Crowder, gin office;

Kelso, usual place; Scott City, precinct one, food locker; precinct two, city hall; Ilmo, city hall; Chaffee, precinct one, city hall; precinct two, Phillip's TV; Benton, courthouse; New Hamburg, usual place; Morley, city hall; Vanduser, city hall; Oran, precinct one, city hall; precinct two, Burger Barber Shop; Bleda, Gosche Store; Perkins, Needle Clubhouse, and Haywood City, usual place.

New Madrid County voters living in Sikeston will cast their ballots tomorrow at Fairview three miles south of Sikeston on Highway 61. The polling place will be in a school bus on the west side of the road.

Chance of Rain Faces Primary Race Voters

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some Missouri voters may get wet in Tuesday's primary election voting and generally it will be a warm, humid day.

The St. Louis weather bureau forecast a 50 per cent chance of showers in southern and central Missouri and a 30 to 40 per cent possibility in northern Missouri. Temperatures are expected to be in the upper 80s and 90s.

In most of the state, the weather will be hotter than the election.

Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick is predicting a vote total of 787,000, about 35 per cent more than four years ago, during Tuesday's off-year primary elections in Missouri.

Hot local races and voting on three state constitutional amendments apparently have stimulated voter interest in an otherwise lackluster primary campaign.

Of 10 congressional incumbents, only 8th District Rep. Ichord, D-Houston, appears to be challenged in a contest against Clyde Wilson, University of Missouri anthropology professor.

Attention in races for 15 Missouri Senate seats has been focused on the 18th District in northeastern Missouri, where Sen. Richard Southern of Monroe City faces a sharp challenge from Monticello school administrator Norman L. Merrell, and the 34th District, where Sen. John E. Downs of St. Joseph, a Democrat, is not seeking reelection.

Two St. Joseph House members, Ronald Reed Jr. and Truman E. Wilson, are seeking the Democratic nomination. Downs is supporting Reed.

Although all 163 Missouri House seats and several circuit judgeships are on the line, none of the races has stirred much interest.

Of the three proposed constitutional amendments, No. 2 — that which would authorize the building and maintenance of toll roads through state highway funds — has aroused the most interest.

The toll roads proposition is a pet project of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes but has been vigorously opposed by several newspapers.

Other constitutional amendments are No. 1, which would permit the state treasurer to succeed himself, and No. 3, a judicial reform proposal which would make retirement for judges mandatory at age 70.

Proposition No. 3 also would set up a special commission to determine whether judges are mentally and physically fit to serve.

First Rodeo Performance at 8 Thursday

Performances for the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo will begin at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday at the rodeo grounds, according to Charles R. McGill, rodeo chairman.

McGill said advance ticket sales are higher than usual. The rodeo, sanctioned by the Denver-based Rodeo Cowboys Association, will feature professional competition in bareback bronc and saddle bronc riding, bull riding, calf roping and steer wrestling.

The cowboys may come from anywhere throughout North America. They pay their own travel expenses plus rodeo entry fees, and receive only what they are good enough or lucky enough to win in the arena.

A $5,000 purse has been put up by the Sikeston rodeo committee to be added to the cowboys' entry fees for the total prize money. Last year at the rodeo, with the same purse, 69 contestants compete for $7,707.

This was part of the $3.8 million won that year at 533 association - sanctioned rodeos. Kinney Brothers, Sulphur, La., will supply the livestock for the rodeo.

Rodeo entries close at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

BRITTS NEW STORE in the Kingshighway Shopping Center is scheduled to open Aug. 20. The store will offer name brand merchandise in more than 50 categories.

Britts Department Store Will Open on Aug. 20

Announcement was made today that a new 60,000-square-foot Britt's family name brand department store will open Aug. 20 in the Kingshighway Plaza Shopping Center, which is under construction at South Kingshighway and Murray Lane.

Workers are finishing the interior and clerks are stocking merchandise in the new store.

Britts is the name brand department store division of the J. J. Newberry Co., which operates 751 stores in 44 states and 5 Canadian provinces.

The store will be added to 28 other Britt's stores operated from coast to coast, including locations in the states of Washington, California, Texas, Florida, New Jersey, New York, etc. This unit will be the second Britt's operation in Missouri. The other unit is in the Normandy Shopping Center in St. Louis.

Three new Britt's stores were opened in 1969 and more are under construction. Possibly up to 22 Britt's stores may be added within the next two years, approximately half in 1970.

All departments in the new Britt's store in Sikeston will be on one selling floor.

A coffee shop will be included in the store. It will offer counter and booth service and will seat more than 50. Moderate priced meals and snacks will be available.

The store will have an acoustic ceiling, vinyl asbestos flooring, and carpeted areas in the wearable clothing and other areas of the store. The interior also features recessed fluorescent lighting, wide and main customer aisles.

The store will offer merchandise in more than 50 categories.

They include family wearing apparel, fashion accessories, shoes, infants wear, domestics, home decor, fabrics, cosmetics, wigs, sporting goods, luggage, and appliances grouped and displayed in the new "shop within a shop" concept.

The concept of shop within a shop makes selection easier and saves customers shopping time. Britt's broad merchandise assortments emphasize many national brands. Such names as Koret of California, Bobbie Brooks, Judy Bond, College Town, Ship 'n Shore, Talbot, Jane Colby, Lady Wrangler, and Juniorite appear in the ladies' wear department. The men's department features apparel from Van Heusen, Wembley, Interwoven, Hickok, Farah, MacGregor, Jockey, Haggar, Swank, Levi and Rob Roy.

The girls' department will handle merchandise from Rainbow Girl, Bonnie Doone, and Geisha.

Britts domestic department will have goods by Springmaid, Callaway, Cannon, and Kirsch on display.

Credit will be available to customers through a modern credit plan which will be available as a result 30-day charge account or as a flexible payment plan with convenient monthly payments tailored to the needs of each individual customer.

An enclosed, air-conditioned mall will serve all stores in the Kingshighway Plaza Shopping Center, which will comprise approximately 250,000 square feet of retail selling area and will include parking for more than 2,000 cars.

Missing, Foul Play Suspected

PORTAGEVILLE — New Madrid county sheriff's offices said there may be foul play in the disappearance Friday of Alfred Patton, of rural Portageville.

Patton's wife reported Saturday to the sheriff's office her husband had not been seen or heard from since 4 p.m. Friday after leaving his car parked at Hickory Village. Police said keys were left in the car.

Patton, who formerly operated an auction sales firm in Portageville, is described as five feet, eight inches tall, and weighs about 220 pounds.

A fire in May, 1969, believed deliberately set, destroyed a barn, tool shed and pump house on Patton's farm, three miles north of Portageville. There was vandalism and theft of furnishings in his brick home.

Girl, 14, Reported Abducted

EAST PRAIRIE — A 14-year-old girl from East Prairie was reported to have been abducted yesterday as she rode her bicycle near her home.

Brenda Weatherford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Gifford, was reported missing by her parents last night at 9 p.m. Sheriff's officers and auxiliary police searched for the girl until 3 a.m. today when she walked to the home of W. C. Bryant.

Miss Weatherford told Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivey that someone had grabbed her and forced her into his car last night. She was reported to be unable to identify her assailant.

She was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital in Sikeston and released.

$37,716 in July Tax Collections

July tax collection totaled $37,715.98, according to tax collector Ronald Lee. Merchant's license were responsible for the largest amount of $18,936.27.

Other revenue included: Automobile license, $229; liquor license, $830; dog license, $70.

Miscellaneous tax collections included: Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., $7,060.93; additional municipal taxes, $164.04; Missouri Utilities Co., $6,589.51; Associated Natural Gas, $3,454.20.

Personal back tax collections totaled $48.35.

News Briefs Mouthwash Claims Refuted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration says eight mouthwashes offer little more than lip service.

As a result, the agency today ordered the manufacturers to knock off advertising claims of killing bad breath, curing sore throats, or ridding common colds.

If they desire, the FDA says, the firms may continue to advertise "a pleasing effect to the mouth." But no medical claims.

The makers and their products: Johnson and Johnson's Micrin Oral Antiseptic, Lever Brothers' Pepsodent Antiseptic Mouthwash, William S. Merrell Co.'s Cepacol, Warner Lambert Pharmaceutical Co.'s Sterisol, Purdue Frederick Co.'s Betadine, Isonine Pharmaceutical Co.'s Isonine, Kadesnol Corp.'s Kadesnol Mouthwash and Gargle and Merck Co.'s Tyrolaris Mouthwash.

The FDA said a National Academy of Science study showed the mouthwashes had little or no germ killing power and "all were found to be ineffective for preventive or therapeutic claims."

Pollution Curbs Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to force automakers to produce a low-polluting engine within five years—and a resolution proposing the means to free the talent and money to do it—were offered today by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.

Nelson was to have introduced an amendment to the Clean Air Act which would prohibit the sale of internal combustion engines by 1975.

At the same time he served up a "sense of Congress" resolution which would have Detroit declare a moratorium on costly styling changes until it comes up with an alternative propulsion system.

"Until we face the problem of auto pollution, we cannot claim to be serious about air pollution," Nelson said in remarks for Senate delivery.

Noting that oxidant-laden smog blanketed 17 Eastern Seaboard states last week, Nelson said the public had seen "an ominous messenger of the future."

Nelson said industry members had a formal agreement for 16 years to inhibit research and development in the area of pollution control.

Although they signed a consent decree prohibiting them from engaging in any future collusion to restrain pollution research, Nelson said, the record is still dismal and requires congressional action.

Expert after expert, Nelson said, has testified that an efficient, economical, quieter and virtually pollution-free alternative propulsion system can be produced.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

We don't blame Israel for not accepting President Nixon's peace proposal for the war in the Mid-East.

What business has the United States sticking their nose in this trouble.

If we were ruling Israel we would just go ahead and wipe out all of the Arab installations and would also send the planes over to Alexander and let them have a few bombs.

IT'S BAD NEWS TO CRUISE AND BOOZE

Man is considered to be a very smart animal, yet at times he's so very dumb. He prides himself on his common sense and logic. Then he has a few drinks and can become an illogical and/or dangerous menace to himself and society.

Boating and alcohol is a topic not often discussed because statistics imply that it is a minor problem in boating safety. Current U.S. Coast Guard statistics show that of 1351 boating fatalities in 1969, 31 were due to drinking. Alcohol was also the cause of 76 of the 5239 boating accidents. However, one must realize how boating statistics are gathered.

States may vary on accident-reporting requirements. However, according to the federal government, the boat operator must report his own accident if it results in loss of life, serious personal injury, or property damage in excess of $100. Therefore, if an operator has been drinking, it's very unlikely that he'll admit it in his report. Fatalities and other serious accidents are investigated by the proper authorities, but even then alcohol detection may be difficult.

Safe boating under good circumstances requires the operator and passengers to have:

-clear visibility in watching for boats, swimmers, channel markings, weather conditions, and the boat instruments;

-good judgment, especially in the areas of proper speeds and night cruising;

-common sense for emergency situations, safety rules, water signals and buoys, encounters with other boats, and aiding stricken boats;

-proper handling of the boat, such as proper fueling, starting of the engine, and distribution of safety equipment to all passengers.

Put an unsobber person behind the controls of a boat, and elements of caution are forgotten.

Horseplay on a boat can be fatal. According to the U.S. Coast Guard's Boating Statistics 1969, "Vessel capsizings have consistently accounted for more of the lives lost in boating accidents each year than any other type of casualty." And a boater under the influence of alcohol won't think twice about fooling around in a boat—until it's too late.

You're bound to lose if you cruise and booze.

As a man grows older, he feels as if he were working with one hand tied.

How to save time: Wait two hours for an airplane running late, to make a 55-minute flight.

Whether you ride or walk in two's or threes across the face of the earth the hard thing you must do yourself the last step you must go alone.

VENDUE AT SARATOGA

Last November, Charles W. Englehard paid $480,000 for five thoroughbreds. "You've always got to improve quality," he explained. "If you don't go forward you sure as hell go backward." Englehard, the New Jersey platinum magnate, must have been talking about blood lines, not money. In the able assessment of octogenarian trainer James E. (Sunny Jim) Fitzsimmons, the owners as well as the betting public have "got to lose... no chance in the world to break even."

Blithely ignoring the financial illogic of the exercise, the owners will gather at Saratoga Springs, N.Y., this summer, as they have for two generations, for the 50th annual vendue of yearlings. The new, merely and very rich will bid against each other for 249 head of prime horseflesh up for auction on four successive evenings beginning on Tuesday, August 4. Last year, 202 yearlings were auctioned by the Fasig-Tipton Co. for a total of $3,707,300. The average price was $18,353 and the highest was $175,000 -- paid by Lady Beaverbrook for a bay colt by Sea-Bird.

Buying an untied horse for hundreds of thousands of dollars is probably the biggest and most exhilarating way to gamble there is. Canadian multi-millionaire Frank McMahon should know. On July 20 he paid a record price of $510,000 for a yearling -- a full brother to Majestic Prince, who won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness for McMahon last year. The previous record was $405,000 paid in 1968 for Reine Enchanteur, a filly by Sea-Bird out of Libra. The postscript is that Reine Enchanteur has yet to start a race.

The Arizona Farm Bureau Federation notes that, "The work force will have grown to 100 million people by 1980. White collar workers will increase by one third, blue collar workers by only one tenth. The U.S. Gross National Product will increase-- hourly rates of pay will go from today's $3 per hour average to approximately $4.30 which means wages of cowhands, hired men, etc., will rise, too."

In reading our Page for Saturday we find that we failed to say who we were going to vote for, for the representative in the legislature. It will be our friend and Old Neighbor Tony Heckemeyer.

FOREIGN AID RAISES BIG QUESTIONS

The information on foreign aid which follows raises many serious questions. One question would be: Can we survive indefinitely as a strong nation if we continue dissipating our resources and giving away our wealth to nations all over the world?

This practice is destroying our world markets. Many of our commodities are no longer competitive in the world markets. Note the following figures carefully:

(1) New budget requests made since January 1, 1969 for additional authority for foreign assistance covering loans, grants and credits are $10.528 billion.

(2) Unexpended balances in pipeline from prior years, $18.7 billion.

If all new requests are approved by the Congress, the total funds available, new and from prior years, will amount to $29.236 billion.

(3) Net cost, I repeat, net cost of the foreign assistance program since its inception (1946-69), including interest on what we have borrowed to give away, amounts to $182.5 billion. Our wealth has been distributed among the entire 3.5 billion population of the world, with the exception of a mere 36 million people.

(4) During this world-wide spending spree, our gold holdings have been reduced from $22.8 billion to $10.36 billion.

(5) Since the inception of this world-wide spending spree, short-term dollar claims against the United States (due now) have increased from $8.6 billion to $35.6 billion. If we should be called upon to redeem these short-term IOU's, we could not meet the demand.

(6) Our balance-of-payments situation, since this world-wide spending spree started, has become serious. We have sent to foreign nations of the world $36.8 billion more than they have returned to us.

(7) The freewheeling spending program covering the face of the earth has helped push the U.S. public debt to a figure $57 billion above the combined public debt of all other nations of the world.

(8) Many believe that we have substituted dollars for a sound foreign policy. Indeed, we have substituted aid for trade. We have become so addicted to this new formula that to be able to continue it we are now borrowing money from more than 30 FOREIGN NATIONS of the world.

We are borrowing money from the American people to pay for commodities and services which are given free to foreign nations. At the same time we are borrowing money from foreign nations in order to improve temporarily our balance-of-payments situation. ONE EXAMPLE IS AS FOLLOWS:

Thailand is the recipient of over $1 billion of our aid, both commodities and services. The United States borrowed the money to pay for these commodities and services we have given to them. During the same period, Thailand, out of its own resources, created a surplus in its foreign exchange and gold reserves of over $1 billion. NOW THE SHOCKER!

After long diplomatic wrangling, strong argument and arm-twisting, Thailand reluctantly but finally agreed to make the United States a loan of $100 million. Terms: Four and one-half years at six per cent interest.

This is just one of many examples of the mess we are getting into with our freewheeling, world-wide spending program.

The following recapitulation sheets and the summary are from the record and are being furnished to the overburdened American taxpayers, hoping that they have the means and persuasion to help put an end to this frightful spending spree that we have embarked upon.

This is the Administration's program in name only. Third and fourth echelon bureaucrats are the ones who are involving us in these foreign entanglements. During fiscal 1970, the aid program will be operating in 99 nations and five territories of the world, with 51,000 individuals on the payroll. This includes U.S. personnel, foreign personnel, and participants. There are 4,408 projects and subprojects scattered all over the world. While many similar projects in America were closed down during fiscal 1969 for lack of funds, not a single foreign aid project suffered as much as a one dollar reduction on account of the limitation imposed by the Revenue and Expenditure Control Act of last year.

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — If you can't fight 'em, tease 'em to death.

That seems to be the attitude of most men toward women at work.

For example:

When John Doe hangs a motheaten deer's head on his office wall, it's individuality. When Jane Doe hangs curtains, it's frivolity.

The pictures of the kids on John's desk show he's a fine, upstanding family man. The pictures on Jane's desk mean she's really more concerned with her home than her job.

John's trip to the barber shop on office time for a haircut and a shave is a natural male prerogative. Jane's beauty parlor appointment draws cries of, "What can you expect from a woman?"

John's three-hour lunch with the boys is for business. Jane's jaunt with the girls is for gossip. John's attaché case—even if it holds nothing more than his lunch—is the sign of a good businessman. Jane's oversized purse—full of memos and files—is the office joke.

The clutter on John's desk is the sign of a busy mind. The clutter on Jane's is typical of a disorganized female who sticks things away in closets and can't remember where she put them.

When John talks about his fellow workers it's constructive criticism or office politics. When Jane ventures an opinion it's being caty.

Bachelor John leaves work early for a big date and he's behaving like a normal American male. Jane ducks out to meet her beau and hears sneers, "All she's interested in is getting married."

That fitted suit and wide tie of John's simply mean he's "with it." Jane's midi and pantsuit are faddism.

John appears for weekend overtime work without a tie and he's being casual. Jane neglects her hair and makeup on a Saturday and she's sloppy.

The examples are almost endless. Men, like women, their quirks, of course. But decades of male business supremacy have turned those quirks into standard office procedure.

The tide is changing.

Liberalism is here. And just remember: Those pink curtains

you laugh at may belong to your next boss.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON - President Nixon is so pleased over the latest developments in Vietnam that he is preparing to speed up the American withdrawal.

Not only has the South Vietnamese Army developed into a more effective force, but the Saigon government has strengthened its political position. Result: He hopes to pull out the next 150,000 men before the May 1971 goal.

He also sees less reason to offer concessions to Hanoi, therefore, he will harden the U.S. peace terms.

The State and Defense Departments, meanwhile, have drawn up comprehensive, classified plans for the South Vietnamese to take over the combat within two years. Other functions, such as pacification, will also be turned over to them.

The details of the disengagement, however, haven't been given to the South Vietnamese who are supposed to carry them out. The Americans want Saigon to understand that the disengagement is inevitable and to prepare for it. But they would also like Hanoi to believe that the withdrawal schedule is flexible.

To keep the details from the communists, the U.S. is also withholding them from the South Vietnamese who are involved. The plans, therefore, exist more on paper than in practice.

Footnote: The pull-out process will continue until only a military assistance group remains. By mid-1973, this will be reduced to 40,000 to 60,000 support troops, including artillery units, helicopter squadrons, engineering companies and signal units.

ANOTHER RAILROAD SCANDAL

With its sleek fleet of punctual commuter trains fanning out into Chicago's most fashionable suburbs, the Chicago and Northwestern Railway is cited as evidence that other railroads need not go the way of the bankrupt Penn Central.

The remarkable success of the C&N's commuter service has earned its top officer, balding, pipe-smoking Ben Heineman, a reputation as one of the nation's most astute railroad men.

But behind this impressive facade lies a tale of corporate plunder and conglomerate expansion that has left the railroad picked clean of much of its assets. The quality of its service is in a tailspin from which it may never recover.

Here are the facts: Since 1964, the railroad has shown a net income of $10.7 million. Yet it has paid its stockholders more than $51 million in dividends.

The cash to pay these generous bonuses appears to have been raised largely by the sale of $66 million of the railroad's real estate over the last decade, some of it obtained, presumably, by the right of eminent domain.

In 1965, Heineman shelled out $34 million of the railroad's assets to buy two chemical companies. The record makes it plain that this money was badly needed for repair and upkeep of the railroad itself.

Freight damage along the C&N's 11,000 miles of track has risen sharply since 1964. Last year, the railroad had to reimburse its freight customers more than $9 million to cover the cost of ruined goods.

The accident rate on the C&N has more than doubled in number since 1964. Last year there were more than 20 for every million locomotive miles. This is more than twice the national average.

Derailments caused by bad track are also on the increase. The rate has more than doubled since 1964. Last year's figures are not available, but there were five per million locomotive miles in 1968, again more than twice the national average for all railroads. Last year, the Interstate Commerce Commission ordered the C&N to stop all shipments along a registering protest against "our involvement in and possible expansion of the war in Southeast Asia." - Elkins Inter-Mountain.

For Amendment No. 3

This newspaper joins the Missouri Bar Association in urging voters to support Amendment No. 3, the judicial reform measure, at the August 4 primary election. We believe the proposals suggested in the amendment, while hardly constituting a major reform, do provide some badly-needed changes in the state's present judicial system, and, at the same time, offer an opportunity to make additional ones in the future.

The most important changes embodied in Amendment No. 3 are concerned with the mandatory retirement of judges at age 70 and with the establishment of more effective procedures for the removal of judges for misconduct or for physical or mental disability.

Under the present system there is no mandatory retirement age for judges other than those of the appellate and Supreme Courts, and these may presently serve until age 75. Under the proposed change, all judges, who serve under the non-partisan court plan would be required to retire at age 70. Also, retired judges would no longer be required to maintain a residence in Missouri and be subject to call as special commissioners as they now are.

The amendment would also provide a more prompt and effective means of removing a judge, either for misconduct or for physical or mental disability. This would be accomplished reaching him at this time through the establishment of a

H.L. Hunt Says

PERSONAL ENTERPRISE AND THE ENVIRONMENT

There can be no question that the rapid development of technology and industry in our country has contributed to the pollution of our environment. Now that an awareness of the importance of curbing pollution has been aroused, many personal enterprise businesses can be found in the forefront of the effort to preserve and enhance our environment.

Senator Gordon Allott of Colorado recently praised the anti-litter campaign being carried on by Adolph Coors Company of Golden, Colorado. Earlier this year, the Coors Company announced a "cash-for-cans" program to encourage individuals to collect and return used aluminum cans to the company. Anyone who has given on the highways of our nation knows how much discarded aluminum cans, which never rust away, have disfigured our countryside.

The Coors Company pays 10 cents per pound for aluminum cans, which are then put into its pioneer recycling program. The response, according to Senator Allott, "has been astonishing and gratifying."

During the first six weeks of the program, over two and a half million cans, which adds up to 112,000 pounds, were returned. Coors officials estimate that over 50 million cans, or two and a half million pounds, will be turned in by the end of this year, at a cost to the Coors Company of a quarter of a million dollars per year.

This personal enterprise business has demonstrated that new laws and governmental restraints are not needed to force businessmen to protect and preserve the environment. It has given an example of how responsible personal enterprisers can develop reasonable and practical anti-pollution programs on their own. H.L.H.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

TOO MUCH SPENDING: Ted Kennedy Says Nation's Political Talent as Elections Go to Rich By Default

When recently I talked with Ted Kennedy he observed that some recent chronicling of mine-on his political activities- was interesting and accurate. Since my police press card still entitles me to be an inquiring reporter, I queried the gentleman from Massachusetts on the specifics of which columns. Perhaps they were the ones in which it was suggested that he was definitely a '72 presidential candidate.

The senator went right past one in a manner professional as the founding father's.

So I asked him what he believed were the key issues and the key reforms needed in the coming national elections, '70 as well as '72. Here is his reply as Senator Kennedy wrote it exclusively for this column: by SENATOR EDWARD M. KENNEDY

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The most serious problem in the American political process in 1970 is the problem of campaign financing. The skyrocketing cost of running for public office has produced a situation in which all but the wealthy—or their friends—are prohibited from running for public office.

The largest single expense in most political campaigns is the expense of broadcast time, especially television. In 1964, the total broadcasting charge for the primary and general election campaigns was $35 million. By 1968, the charge had soared to $59 million. The escalation is increasing, and the end is not in sight.

The potential political candidate of modest means is being driven from the field. Without a source of independent family wealth, he faces the Hobson's choice of either a shoestring campaign or reliance on a few large contributors. If he takes the shoestring route, he faces almost certain defeat. If he goes the route of the large contributor, he inevitably creates the sort of ambiguous relationship in which he is obligated—or at least appears to be obligated—to the moneyed people.

The problem is especially serious because it gives politics the air of dirty business. It breeds cynicism in our people, and dropouts from the polls. In 1968, 33 million Americans voted for President Nixon but 47 million—or 39 per cent of the eligible voters—stayed away from the voting booth. Britain last June, 72 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls and they called it one of the lowest turnouts in British history.

In an era where the name of the game is reform, and domestic reform programs are huckstered by every candidate, the call for reform of the political process goes strangely unheard. To me, this is where reform ought to begin, because if we can't keep our democracy running and responsive, no amount of reform in any other area can succeed.

We can start by cleaning up our election laws, especially those limiting campaign contributions and requiring disclosure of both contributions and expenditures. As many experts have observed, our current Federal election laws are more loophole than law. Their limits do not limit, and their penalties are empty threats.

The Federal Corrupt Practices Act requires disclosure of campaign contributions and expenditures, but the requirement is a hollow one. It has a triple flaw. It doesn't apply to primaries, it doesn't apply to individuals, and it doesn't apply to committees operating solely within one state.

The same sort of gaping holes exist in the Act's ceiling of $5,000 on campaign contributions. It doesn't apply to gifts to each of several political committees supporting the same candidate.

As a result, we have the sort of frustrating situation where our election laws do more harm than good. They fail to achieve their goal of curtailing spending and spotlighting excessive contributions and expenditures. All they do is encourage the endless proliferation of political committees and the development of ingenious new ways to exploit the loopholes.

We need a thorough overhaul of our election laws. We need tight ceilings and full disclosure for all contributions and expenditures—and now is the time to start. Our abdication of responsibility is especially apparent in election years, and the total broadcasting charge for 1970 is no exception. New abuses are being uncovered every day, and the area is ripe for reform.

Another great reform we need is a new way to broaden the political base by encouraging campaign contributions from small donors. The most effective step Congress can take in this area is to enact a Federal tax credit for political contributions.

For my part, I tried to offer such a credit as a Senate amendment to the Tax Reform Act last December—a tax credit of $25 for half the contribution a taxpayer makes to any candidate for Federal, state, or local. I lost by a 50-45 vote, but I intend to try again before Congress goes home this year.

The real advantage of the tax credit is that it leaves the decision on the allocation of public funds to the individual taxpayer himself. All the other major proposals for direct Federal appropriation for candidates have fountered on the problem of how much public money the Government should allocate to third parties. The tax credit solves the problem by letting each taxpayer decide the issue himself.

The only major objection to the tax credit is the argument of Revenue code purists who feel that Form 1040 is an inappropriate vehicle to achieve social goals like reform of the political process. Those who take this view simply ignore the fact that, ever since the tax code was first enacted, it has been used as an effective instrument of social change.

Between now and November 3, the controversy over our election laws is bound to grow. What can one man do? If enough citizens voice their concern, the energy they create can move Congress, and we will have reform.

Help Prevent Suicide...Let Someone Know You Care What Happens To Him

Dear Ann Landers: This is an answer to the reader from Port Jervis, New York, who wrote about a friend who committed suicide. Last December a pal of mine killed himself. Another friend attempted suicide three times in the past 14 months. I tried to take my own life a few years ago.

We all had promising futures and financial security but we lacked one thing—the ability to relate to others. I stopped wanting to kill myself when I realized my death would make a difference. That somebody really cared.

If people want to help, they CAN. Here are a few things everyone can do: Smile more—even to people you don't know. Touch people. Look them in the eye. Let them know you are aware they exist. Be concerned about those you work with. Listen when they speak to you. Spend an extra minute. If someone has a problem let him tell you about it. Sometimes just listening means more than you'll ever know.

To those who are in a depression, say this: "Everybody has highs and lows. Nobody is on top of the world all the time. You'll crawl back up again if you give yourself a chance. Tomorrow will be better."

You could save a life without realizing it by letting a depressed person know he has value. He counts. Somebody cares. I care.—Age 27

Dear Twenty-seven: So do I. That makes two people right there. Thank you for a wonderful letter.

Dear Ann Landers: I've written you four letters a week apart and torn them all up but I can't get this off my mind, so here goes:

I am seven months pregnant. On Mother's Day my husband didn't buy me a present. I would have settled for a card. I was very hurt but said nothing for three days. Then finally I let him have it. He said I was crazy—that Mother's Day was for mothers and I didn't qualify. I say I DID qualify. After a woman carries a child for seven months, she feels like a mother.

Is a mother a mother only AFTER she has a child? Please answer. This is important.—Rotund Roz

Dear Roz: If a woman is a mother before her child is born she can also be a widow before her husband dies, a mother-in-law before her child marries and a sister before her mother has another child. NOW do you get the point?

Dear Ann Landers: The other day I was having lunch with a friend. After lunch she said, "Let's find a mailbox. I have to drop these letters." She took six envelopes out of her bag and just as she was about to drop them in a mailbox I stopped her. Each letter had a one-cent stamp. When I called it to her attention she said, "Oh—the party on my other end gets nicked for the insufficient postage. I never put a return address on my coin and a long, stamped, envelopes. You'd be surprised how much money I save this way."

Is this true? I have never heard of such a thing. Have you?—Bend, Oregon

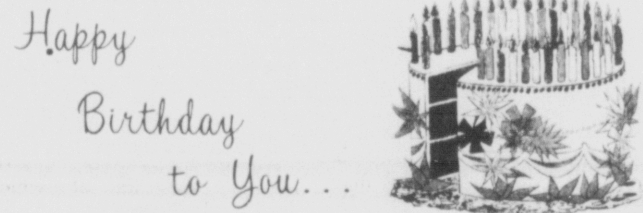

Dear Bend: A person who would pull such a stupid stunt doesn't place much value on the letters she writes. Sometimes a letter with insufficient postage is refused on the other end and goes to the dead letter office.

Confidential to My D Cup Runneth Over: Plastic surgery could solve your problem. It is NOT dangerous if done by a competent surgeon. Ask your doctor to recommend someone who specializes in breast surgery.

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become too hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting—What Are The Limits?" Mail your request to the Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in a return address on my coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CHICAGO (AP) Concerned citizens must seek to be part of the "Radical Middle," said Dr. James B. Holderman, executive director of the Board of Education of the State of Illinois.

Speaking to the 68th graduating class of the Chicago College of Osteopathic Medicine, Holderman said these people are those who not only care about the survival of the nation as a democracy but also understand the need for conciliation, compromise and competition of ideas.

"Little time exists for nurturing memories of a past destined never to return," he said.

CHANGE OF PACE ... A handsome molded fruit salad provides a cool change of pace from the usual summer salads. Serve on a platter bordered with cold cuts and cheese.

A cool sparkling gelatin mold, served outdoors on a hot day, is one of the pleasantest possible culinary sights. If the mold is accompanied by cheese and cold cuts, your guests will have a meal they will long remember, with a minimum of kitchen work on your part.

This molded fruit salad is delightfully refreshing, delightfully easy to make. Do it while the day is relatively cool in the morning and you'll be able to keep your house cool at dinner time. Canned fruit cocktail simplifies the fruit part of the mold, and chopped celery and green pepper furnish crisp contrast to the fruit. Frozen lemonade concentrate furnished quick, tangy flavor for the mold. Thanks to the presence of reliable unflavored gelatin, there is little cookery involved.

Keep the mold in the refrigerator till serving time. Then unmold it on one of your prettiest platters, surround with meat and cheese slices, and dinner is ready in a twinkling.

Unmolding the mold is a simple procedure; do it this way. Dip the mold in warm (not hot) water to the depth of the gelatin. Loosen around the edge with the tip of a small paring knife. Place the platter on top of the mold and turn upside down. Shake, holding the platter tightly to the mold. If the gelatin does not unmold readily, repeat the process.

When the temperature soars, dishes made with unflavored gelatin help tempt flagging appetites. The unflavored gelatin goes into a wide variety of summer favorites — jellied soups, aspic, salads, main dishes, and desserts. Gelatin dishes always look cool and attractive, and taste just as sensational as they look.

COOL SALAD PLATTER 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin 1 cup cold water 1 can (6 ounces) frozen lemonade concentrate, kept frozen 1 can (1 pound, 14 ounces) fruit cocktail 1 cup Whipped salad dressing 1/2 cup chopped celery

Silenced Wooden Shoes Crash Fashion Scene

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

Wooden shoes are clunk-clunk-clunking their way to fashion fame in New York.

Actually, the Swedish-designed shoes aren't noisy — the wood soles are covered by rubber soles.

The silent cloppers are being grabbed up by models, career girls and other fashion-minded they were stocked by the delicatessen's meat balls, herings, salads, hundreds of cheeses and other delectable foods, and Finnish reindeer rugs. Soon, there will be a special building for the shoe that fascinates stylish people. Many people want the wooden shoes in various styles," Booge says.

At first, people with high insteps have a little difficulty with the uppers, but each batch of shoes from Sweden seems to improve on the shoe design's comfort.

One long-legged model solved the instep irritation the first days by wearing adhesive tape across her instep where the upper part of the shoe rubs.

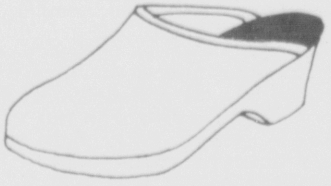

"It looks a little crazy," she confided. "But I'm not going to stop wearing the shoes because my instep is a little high. I love them."

HOBART, Tasmania (AP) At least once a week the new 100,000 Australian dollar ($112,000 U.S.) sewage scheme pumps at New Norfolk shudder to an enforced halt.

It costs the municipal council 90 Australian dollars ($100 U.S.) to restart them.

Now the council has issued an appeal to women: "Please don't flush your pantihose down lavatories."

Said a council spokesman: "These garments are so strong the machines can't handle them. As few as three pairs wrapped around the pump bearings bring the whole system to a standstill."

Potlatch Eliminated From Legion Playoffs

After proving themselves as the team to beat in the area's American Legion competition, Sikeston's Potlatch-Legion squad bowed out of the District No. 14 playoffs by dropping two unexpected games to Jackson and Poplar Bluff over the weekend.

The double losses knocked Sikeston out of the double elimination tournament, and ended the teams successful season on a sour note.

Cape leads in the playoffs with two wins under their belt, while Jack and Poplar Bluff trail with 1-1 records in the playoffs.

Saturday night marked the League's opening rounds with Sikeston at Jackson, and Poplar Bluff at Cape. Sikeston's Potlatch Legion nine fell in the opener 908 to Jackson, while Cape picked up their first win from Bluff.

Rodney LeGrand led the Sikeston hitters with two hits. Don Miller suffered the loss for Sikeson, and was relieved by Les Schatzley in the ninth.

Jeff City Claims State Babe Ruth Baseball Crown

Spasmodic rains, blistering heat, and a ball club from Jefferson City prevailed in this weeks Jr. Babe Ruth State Tournament held at Sikeston's VFW Stadium over the weekend.

14-7 victory over Sikeston, Jeff City continued their winning pace with two consecutive wins to capture the State Title.

Both of Jefferson City's remaining games were against Joplin, another team who had the long journey to Sikeston, and one, like Jeff City's hwo didn't want to go home empty handed.

Joplin fell in both of their games with Jefferson City, but the Jefferson City line-up, found the competition rougher and rougher as the tourney progressed. Jeff City's first game produced 17 hits, their second game 12, but in the final Championship contest, Jeff City's average of 15 hits a game was decisively cut to only two safeties both game winning doubles.

Saturday, Joplin opened their tourney play with a 13-5 win over Ozark, and Sikeston fell out of the Tourney in the second game as Houston defeated the hosting Stars 3-1. The third game of the afternoon was one of a championship caliber, as the two remaining undefeated teams, Joplin, and Jeff City clashed in the double elimination tourney game.

For six and a half innings, both teams had struggled through the heat to a 2-2 tie, then the rains, that had held the games up the day before, fell again, raining out the game. Completion of the game was Sunday, where the Jeff City club went into the eighth inning before collecting 3 runs, breaking the deadlock for a 5-3 victory.

Joplin fought their way back into the championship bracket by downing Ozark, 13-6. Ozard had progressed their way through the losers bracket with an 8-2 win over Houston.

The Championship game between Joplin and Jeff City got under way at 8:30. Already Joplin had been in nine and a half innings of play in the Sunday afternoon heat, and Jeff City had been competing for two and a half innings in the South-east Missouri heat.

Both teams had their top hurlers on themound, and their biggest bats at the plate. Pitching prevailed in the seven inning contest as both teams were held to only two hits.

Dan Morrow handled the pitching chore for Jeff City, while Dittman was on the mound for Joplin. The third inning provided the games winning and scoring for either team as the Capital Citizens pushed across three deadly runs in the inning for the victory.

Stan Wallace opened the inning with a double, and the bases jamed as a fielders Choice, and a walk provided RBI material for Steve Luebbert, the next batter. Three RBI's followed as the slugger smashed a game winning double that brought all three of the Jeff City runs in for the scores.

Neither team scored in the remaining innings, but Jeff City used three pitchers late in the game, trying to cope with the numerous scoring threats of the Joplin nine.

The game ended with Jeff City on top 3-0 and with the Capital City squad with a five hundred dollar ticket to Boonville, MO. to represent Missouri in the Mid West Regional.

Big Winner To Race At Fair

SEDALLA, Mo. — The first ten-time champion in the history of auto racing, Ernie Derr of Keokuk, Iowa, will be out to hold his lead in the 1970 title race, when he competes in the IMCA New Model Stock car races at the Missouri State Fair here, Sunday afternoon, August 23, and again Saturday, August 29.

According to the dual-entry received here today by Secretary Wilbert Askew, Ernie Derr will drive a new 1970 Dodge Charger while 22 year old Mike, his son, will wheel a '69 Dodge.

Though father Ernie won two of the three late model stock car events here last year, the younger Mike proved he was of championship caliber by finishing fourth in the recent Iowa "300" from a field of 30 veterans, including his father, Ernie, who captured the marathon speed classic.

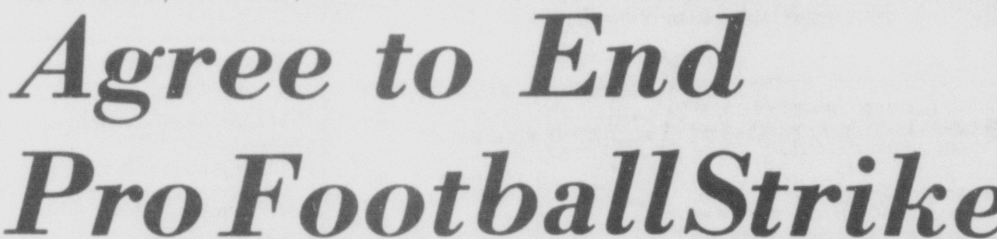

The elder Derr bounced back into championship contention after losing three features to Fred Horn, Mel Morris and Freddie Fryar in early spring races this year. All are expected to be in the field when the green flag drops on the opening stock car time trials Sunday, August 23.

Ernie Derr and son Mike will be out to seek the lion's share of the $34,600 cash purses at stake in the five-day auto race meet slated for the Missouri State Fair.

The first late model race meet will consist of five heats and a 50-lap feature on the half-mile track, while the closing Saturday will see the 1967-70 models in action on the one-mile track in a 100-mile nonstop race. That evening the same cars and drivers will take to the half-mile track in a six-race program starting at 8:00 p.m. Tickets are now on sale at the Missouri State Fair box office in Sedalia.

Seats are scaled at $2.00 general admission, reserve seats are $3.00 for the opening Sunday and $3.50 for Saturday afternoon August 29. Box seats are pegged at $3.50 for the first day event, $4.00 for the 100-mile race Saturday August 29 and $3.50 for the evening sprint-type program. Afternoon racing will start at 2:30 and the night race at 8:00 p.m.

Agree to End Pro Football Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Owners of reached agreement with the ending a players' strike which the National Football League Players Association today, had threatened the 1970 season

Working Overtime

A spokesman said Rozelle met during the night with representatives of the National Football League Players Association.

It was the 11th hour in the most serious labor dispute in the history of professional sports in this nation. Already it threatened the exhibition season, scheduled to be Friday night with a clash between Cleveland and Los Angeles, the first of 10 weekend preseason games.

There was one report, from NFLPA sources, that a players' group was actually meeting with the owners' negotiating committee, headed by T. Schramm of the Dallas Cowboys.

Shortly after midnight, however, a league spokesman said, "No players are meeting with the owners."

Schramm, while president of the Cowboys, technically isn't an owner. The team is the property of wealthy Texan Clint Murchison.

Even if there was a bargaining session, the fullscale owners meeting continued in the Part Avenue offices of the league. Several blocks away the NFL set up press headquarters in a plush suite of a midtown Manhattan hostelry. A half-dozen sleepy newsmen and a league representative waited there during the predawn hours. It was anybody's guess when there would be development in the impasse.

From Cincinnati came word from Mike Brown, assistant general manager of the Bengals, that the owners were making a new contract offer. He said he'd talked by long-distance telephone to New York with his father, Paul Brown, head coach and general manager of the Bengals.

Crux of the contract dispute is the pension plan.

The owners and players were reportedly $8 million apart over the proposed four-year contract period when they met under the aegis of federal mediators last week in Philadelphia. Latest reports indicated the gap had narrowed to $1.04 million.

Owner Carroll Rosenbloom of the Baltimore Colts warned that unless an accord comes soon there was strong sentiment among owners to cancel the pro season. Kansas City Chief's owner Lamar Hunt, however, said he was prepared to play with rookies and free agents, who aren't involved in the contract hassle.

Brown shut down his rookie camp because he had only 16 prospects in camp. Some other teams have so few on hand they can't get up two 11-man teams for a scrimmage.

The owners, in a position paper issued over a week ago, said their offer at the time would provide an annual pension of $59,000 for a 15-year veteran at the age of 65.

Bill Curry of the Baltimore Colts, manning the NFLPA's strike headquarters in a Washington, D. C., hotel, said in a Sunday interview the association had bungled its public relations efforts to counteract the owners' statements.

"I'm afraid we look like a bunch of greedy slobs," Curry said. The $59,000 figure, which he called quite inflated, would apply to a player who began his pro career this season.

"We're trying to get the pension of $380 a month at 65."

Devine Among Leaders

Those big D- men from the Big Eight—Devaney and Devine—plus the maestro of the Ole Miss head the active major college coaches' success chart.

Just when it appeared the rest of the field might be about to catch No. 1 Nebraska's Bob Devaney, he directed a masterful 9-2 campaign last fall capped by a 45-6 post season pasting of Georgia.

As a result, the former end from Alma College remains comfortably in front with a 13-year varsity head coaching mark of 103-28-5, a .786 percentage. Dan Devine of Missouri stands third in the rating, which are based on 10 or more seasons, by following a similar path. Like Devaney, he captained an upper midwest small college team (Minnesota Duluth Branch), coached in Michigan high school ranks, assisted at Michigan State and wound up in the Big Eight Conference.

With a winning percentage of .765 at 114-35-8 he is just .002 behind John Vaught, the former Texas Christian All-American who has carved a 178-54-12 record as skipper of Mississippi's Sugar Bowl champions.

Close behind the top three comes Alabama's Bear Bryant, whose 193 victories are tops in the major ranks.

After that it's Darrell Royal of Texas' defending national titleholders, new addition John McKay of Southern California and Ohio State's Woody Hayes. Their teams put together a combined mark of 29-1-1 in 1969.

Arizona State's Frank Kush, Dartmouth's Bob Biskman and Frank Broyles of Arkansas round out the top 10.

Ara Parseghian, Notre Dame, is 11th and Memphis State's Bill Murphy 12th.

Interestingly, 15 of the 25 most successful "major" coaches either played or coached in the Midwest or Midlands. The state of Ohio claims six of that number, including Hayes, Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian, Indiana's John Pont and South Carolina's Paul Dietzel—all of whom have been affiliated with Miami of Ohio.

Retirement claimed three of the elite. Ray Graves of Florida stepped aside with a 70-31-4, .693 showing for 10 years. Purdue's Jack Mollenkopf left the sidelines boasting 84-39-9, .683 for 14 campaigns, while Clemson's Frank Howard closed the book on 30 years at 165-118-12, .583.

In the small college ranks, Jake Gaither of Florida A & M left a glittering 203-36-4, .849 legacy when he called it quits. Leading the candidates, who will be eligible for ranking after the coming fall, is former Bryant pupil Jerry Claiborne of Virginia Tech. Over nine seasons his clubs have fashioned a 56-33-1, .629 mark. Charlie McClendon of Louisiana State os 61-21-4, .744 after eight years; Doug Dickey—making the switch from Tennessee to Florida—is 46-15-4, .754 after six, while Penn State's Joe Paterno is wowing the eastern crowd at a 35-7-1, .833 clip after just four autumns.

UNDER THE COVER lies the secret of the National League's "livelier" baseball. San Francisco Giants pitcher Gaylord Perry shows the old ball, left, with loosely strung inner cover and present-day one which has harder surface. According to Perry, old ball didn't grip outer cover tightly, tending to deaden ball.

FLY CATCHER—Red Sox first baseman Carl Yastrzemski, mouth agape with effort, leaps in vain attempt to catch ball hit foul by Cleveland Indians' Duke Sims.

Gibson Wins 14th

Fireballing Bob Gibson will be turning 35 this year, but the Houston Astros didn't notice his age as the St. Louis Cardinals whipped them 3-2 Sunday for a sweep of the three-game series.

But the Astros made things interesting before dropping their fifth straight decision, despite the fact Gibson had them blanked on one-hit for seven innings.

John Edwards homered in the eighth and the Astros scored again in the ninth on singles by Jesus Alou and Joe Morgan and Jim Wynn's double play grounder.

Gibson, now 14-5, walked three and whiffed 10 to notch his 14th triumph in his last 14 decisions.

Edwards' homer in the eighth was the second time the Houston catcher had tagged Gibson for a four-bagger in the last two times he had faced Gibson. "You win a ball game,"

Malden Wins Own Tourney

MALDEN — Johnny Welch fired a one-hitter as Malden claimed the championship of its own invitational baseball tournament Saturday night, beating Campbell 11-0.

Malden scored eight runs in the first on the way to its four inning victory over Campbell's Dennis Modlin, who walked 10 batters. Malden hitters also got to the lefty for eight hits.

North Pemascot claimed third place honors with a 4-3 win over Hayti. Jerry Stewart picked up the win, striking out 12 while giving up four hits. Hayti's Skip Schenman was insured the loss as he issued four hits.

Eight teams participated in the tournament.

STARS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Batting — Bob Robertson, Pirates, lashed a two-run double and then followed with two 400-foot homers, driving in a total of six runs in Pittsburgh's 10-7 victory over Atlanta.

PITCHING — Bob Gibson, Cardinals, hurled a four-hitter and struck out 10 and singled in the decisive run-in St. Louis' 3-2 victory over Houston.

COVERED DISH

BERNALILLO, N.M. (AP) — A recent Yucca Naturist Club newsletter in announcing a social event urged "everyone to bring a covered dish." The nudist organization is located north of Albuquerque.

Gibson said to a reporter after the game "and the only pitch you can ask me about is a pitch a guy hit for a home run?"

Told about Edwards' other homer, Gibson answered, "That other homer was two weeks ago. I didn't even think of it. Start checking the last 10 years. See what the record shows."

The record shows that Edwards, a former catcher for the Cardinals, has feasted on St. Louis pitching since they traded him to the Astros after the '968 World Series.

Three of Edwards' six homers this year were off the Cardinals' and last season they were the victims of two of his six blows.

"I like to beat 'em sure," Edwards said. "They got rid of me. I was on a pennant winner and they got rid of me."

"But I don't try any harder against Gibson than anybody else. What do you look for from Gibson? A fast ball, naturally. And you know it's going to be hard."

"That pitch today was right down the middle. In St. Louis, I sliced to the opposite field for a homer, a pitch outside. But when you face Gibson, you've got to look for the fast ball."

Royals Fail To End Jinx

Attendance was not mandatory, but Bill Zepp showed up for Minnesota's game and some 20,000 fans turned out in Milwaukee, making it a pleasant day for the Twins and the Brewers.

But the Kansas City Royals, forced to appear before the Baltimore Orioles one more time, came away with the expected gloomy ending.

For the 23rd straight time, the Orioles beat the Royals, this time 10-8 Sunday, extending their major league record for successive victories by one game another.

The Royals have only one consolation: they don't have to face the Orioles again until next season.

On the happier side, however, Zepp, who reportedly had asked earlier to be sent to the minor leagues nearer his family, apparently decided to stay with the Twins and pitched then past Detroit 4-3.

In Milwaukee, not only did the Brewers break a three-game losing streak with a 9-5 victory over the New York Yankees, but the game attracted 20,365 fans. That gave the Brewers a season attendance of 678,087 for 53 dates, more than the team's total attendance of 677,944 all last year.

Zepp, too, apparently will be around, and not only because of the way he is pitching. Minnesota Manager Bill Rigney said Sunday Zepp is staying with the team.

Zepp doesn't care to talk about his problems off the field, and he has few to talk about on the field. Raising his record to 6-1, he stopped the Tigers on six hits and one earned run for 8-3 innings before Detroit scored two tainted runs in the ninth and Ron Peranoski and Stan Williams helped him out.

Zepp also had a single which led to the decisive run in the fifth inning after Tony Oliva hit his 18th homer and Harmon Killebrew hit his 33rd with a man on for the 3-1 lead.

In Milwaukee, the Brewers celebrated their big year at the box office by ending New York's six-game winning streak with a late inning attack. Phil Roof's infield hit scored Ted Savage with the tie-breaking run in the seventh, and Savage added two more runs with a homer in the eighth.

California, after losing nine of 10 games, broke loose behind rookie Tom Bradley, who picked up his first major league victory with help in the ninth after Tony Conigliaro slugged a three-run homer for Boston. Jim Fregosi and Ken McMullen homered for the Angels, who ended a runless streak of 24 innings.

Bill Melton's two-run, two-out blast, his 19th, in the ninth inning off Dick Ellsworth, salvaged a split for the White Sox after the Indians had scored once in the top of the inning.

Rich Hand, 49, yielded only four hits in seven innings of the opener and Dennis Higgins finished up for Cleveland, who got a homer from Duke Sims.

Ed Stroud stroked three hits and scored three runs as Jim Hannan and Darold Knowles combined to pitch Washington past Oakland in their first game.

Don Mincher's 18th homer with two out in the ninth inning won for Oakland in the nightcap. It came off Horacio Pena, 31, in his third inning of relief for Joe Coleman, who left for a pinchhitter in the seventh.

Jim Grant, 50, got the victory, taking over for Rolfe Fingers, who also had left for a hitter in the eighth inning.

TRAINING CAMP is not always a big laugh, despite what Joe Jones (87) of the Cleveland Browns thinks.

Southern Hospitality

By THE ASSOCIATE PRESS
Hospitality is a Southern custom but Atlanta certainly went overboard for Bob Robertson.

Robertson, Pittsburgh's Los Angeles whipped Montreal rookie slugger, ran the Braves 6-3, Philadelphia edged San Francisco 7-6, Cincinnati tripped Chicago 4-3 in 11 innings and St. Louis dropped Houston 3-2.

In the American League, California ripped Boston 8-3, Milwaukee dropped New York 9-3, Minnesota nipped Detroit 4-3, Cleveland split a doubleheader with Chicago, winning 4-2 before losing 8-7, Baltimore walloped Kansas City 10-8, and Washington split a doubleheader with Oakland winning 6-2 and losing 1-0.

The two homers — a solo shot hits — four homers, two doubles in the second and a three-run blast in the sixth — gave Robertson 15 home runs for the season, six of them in Atlanta.

Whatever damage Robertson didn't do, John Jeter took care of. Jeter drove in the Pirates other four runs with a three-run homer and a single.

The Mets, meanwhile, bowed meekly to the Padres twice. Danny Coombs and Tom Dukes combined for a four-hit shutout in the opener and eighth inning homers by Nate Colbert and Ed Spiezio broke a tie to decide the nightcap.

The Padres pushed two runs across to snap a scoreless tie in the seventh inning of the first game with a sacrifice fly by Spiezio breaking up the duel between Coombs and Met starter Jim McAndrew.

Colbert ended a string of seven strikeouts in as many official at bats by ripping his 23rd homer in the eighth inning of the nightcap and then Spiezio, also connected.

Los Angeles exploded for five runs in the ninth inning to overtake Montreal. Trailing 3-1 going into the inning, the Dodgers drew even on consecutive homers by Tom Haller and Bill Sudakis. Then Willie Davis singled the tie-breaking runs home and Wes Parker drove in another with a hit.

Cincinnati battled from behind twice, tying the game with runs in the ninth and 10th innings before beating Chicago in the 11th on Bobby Tolan's twoout single.

Tolan's hit scored Ty Cline, who had singled and moved to second on a balk. Clutch hits by rookies Hal McRae in the ninth and Angel Bravo in the 10th keyed tying rallies for the Reds.

Tony Taylor turned Philadelphia's game around with a ninth-inning grand slam homer that beat San Francisco. The Giants had bunched four consecutive run-scoring singles for a five-run seventh inning to take the lead.

But Larry Hise opened the eighth with a double that fell among three Giant fielders. A single by Doc Edwards and a walk to Terry Harmon loaded the bases for Taylor.

Welfare Plan
Faces Revision

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's welfare reform proposal faces major revision in the Senate Finance Committee, but at least one member has assured the White House the proposal will go before the full Senate.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said he had relayed such an assurance to Nixon through a top White House official.

"In all my years on this committee, it has never killed a major piece of legislation by bottling it up, even when the chairman and ranking members were opposed to it," he said.

"If President Nixon wants a Senate vote on this bill in this session, I am certain the committee will see that he gets it."

At the same time, Williams, a strong critic of the measure in its original and revised form, said bluntly, "This bill is in trouble in the committee as it now stands."

"I believe a big majority of the members will insist on changes before they will vote to report it out."

However, a administration strategists in the Senate are not greatly concerned about any amendments the committee might adopt to cut back on the new Family Assistance Plan which the legislation would set up.

They believe there will be enough votes on the Senate floor to knock out any such changes.

A more important uncertainty surrounding the fate of the legislation appears now to involve the timing of Senate action. Some backers fear it will be impossible to get it passed by the Senate and through a Senate-House conference before Congress quits for the Nov. 3 elections.

The Finance Committee must hear Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson before it can begin on public witnesses. Hodgson will start his testimony Tuesday.

Former Aide Explains
JFK Choice of LBJ

NEW YORK (AP) — Former presidential aide Kenneth O'Donnell says John F. Kennedy chose Lyndon B. Johnson as his running mate in 1960 because he felt that if elected he would be unable to "live with" Johnson as Senate majority leader.

O'Donnell, who served in both the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, said that four years later Johnson wanted Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana as his vice president for the same reason—to remove him from the key Senate leadership post.

O'Donnell's observations in the Aug. 7 issue of Life magazine are from a book he is writing. In addition to domestic politics, the account offers new background on early decisions on America's involvement in Vietnam.

O'Donnell said Kennedy, after consulting with Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Mansfield in 1961 and 1962, agreed with both on "the need for a complete military withdrawal from Vietnam" but planned to withhold announcement until the military advice the President had been getting from the Pentagon," he wrote.

"MacArthur went on to point out that there were domestic problems - the urban crisis, the ghettos, the economy - that should have far more priority than Vietnam."

O'Donnell wrote: "President Kennedy first began to have doubts about our military effort in Vietnam in 1961, when both Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Gen. Charles de Gaulle warned him that the Asian mainland was no place to be fighting a nonnuclear land war."

Burlison Says Census Check Finds 2,088

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — Rep. Bill Burlison, D-Mo., said his campaign to determine the population of Missouri's 10th Congressional District, has turned up 2,088 persons.

Burlison said a preliminary report by the federal census had shown a drop in population of 32,000 since 1960. He started a campaign to find the persons missed in the census.

Burlison said "in view of the short period we had to conduct the campaign, we are delighted with its success."

ELMER RUSSELL

FOR COUNTY JUDGE

It was with a great sense of pride that I announced my candidacy for the office of County Court Judge of the 1st District. I simply want to say, that what we need is integrity and honesty in Public Officials who will make certain that the public monies are being used in the public's interest. I pledge to you integrity and honesty as I serve you as Judge. I am eagerly anticipating serving you and working with you for a just court, an honest government, a clean environment, and a progressive county. I ask you, the people of Scott County to give me the opportunity to give you the kind of County Court you want and deserve to have. If you are concerned, then vote for Elmer Russell tomorrow Aug. 4th.

S. Stauffer
Route 3
Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Mr. Blanton,
I would like to take this opportunity to compliment local prosecuting attorney Tom Gilmore and the citizens of Scott County for their quick action in stifling the proposed rock festival. In one single bound, the Sikeston community has progressed into the 18th Century. One day, we might even reach the 19th.

As a follow-up in the attempt to obtain an injunction to halt gatherings of large crowds and strangers in our area so as to keep our streets and highways free of traffic and litter, I suggest that the prosecuting attorney next ask for an injunction to halt the rodeo. The amount of litter caused by the rodeo is terrible. During the parade, there are smelly piles of dung covering the streets of Sikeston, plus much paper and other wastes both in town and on the rodeo grounds. The amount of traffic generated by the rodeo is also inconvenient and hazardous.

Then, there is also the question of sanitation facilities and intoxicants in the area. I shall not complain on these grounds, though, because as anyone who has ever attended the rodeo knows, its sanitation facilities are among the most outstanding in the entire area. And as regards as to intoxicants, the rodeo is a wonderful thing. The local bars and taverns seem to be so full of rodeo participants as to crowd out the local residents. This is certainly an asset to health standards. But, remembering that the primary basis of American democracy is equality and justice, the prosecuting attorney should also obtain an injunction forbidding "non-residents of Scott county" from patronizing our local bars, taverns, restaurants, and clubs that serve alcohol. We must also worry about outsiders consuming intoxicants in other places besides rock festivals.

If local residents are really concerned about littering, they should begin to practice what they preach. In the July 27th edition of the Standard, there are two front page photos of trash dumped along the Brown Spur road. Such scenes as these are certainly not rare to the area. Many ditches along farm to market roads have piles of trash in them, and this has been going on for years. Why should there be all this sudden concern about strangers littering the area when we've been doing it ourselves for years?

Also, if the local authorities are worried about businessmen or any one else attracting "non-residents of Scott County" to Sikeston, I as a resident of Mississippi County, will be most happy to take my business elsewhere. If "non-residents of Scott county" are not wanted in Sikeston, I'm quite certain that we can find other places to go. I-55 makes it a very short and pleasant trip to Cape Girardeau where there are more stores and wider selections of merchandise.

All that I am really trying to say is that I think people are getting too carried away about the whole thing. If the promoters of the "rock festival" had called it a "concert," the entire controversy could probably have been avoided. I do realize that local authorities have a definite responsibility to maintain public health and order, but it does seem that they should at least try to work something out with the promoters of the event before presumptuously banning it. The rodeo has a large number of "non-residents of Scott County" each year, and so far, the Jay Cees and the police have managed very well.

Sincerely yours
Sidney H. Stauffer

Real Senate Battle Not Expected Until November

By LARRY HALL
Associated Press Writer
JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Some time a Missouri primary campaign for United States senator stirs up a real fight—as in 1968.

But this year Missouri voters had to be content with getting only a preview of the expected hot contest in the general election campaign between Democratic Sen. Stuart Symington and Republican Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth. This year the primary runners have had only nominal campaign was virtually over opposition.

Technically, Symington has four opponents but the only one whose name might be familiar to voters is William McKinley Thomas, an ex-Republican who has run for high office regularly in the last 26 years and never has come close to winning.

The other three Democrats are Hershel V. Page, a Kirkwood high school teacher; former state Rep. Lee C. Sutton of Columbia, whose views sound like something out of the old old confederacy, and Douglas V. White of University City, a political unknown.

In addition to Mrs. Bass, Danforth will be on the same ballot with Dr. Morris DeWayne Duncan of Kansas City, an osteopath who also holds a law degree and has campaigned unsuccessfully before. Neither he nor Mrs. Bass has made a statewide campaign.

Mrs. Bass, an avowed conservative, is expected to pick up some support from the right wing of the GOP and has attacked state party leaders for endorsing Danforth — the first Republican state official elected since Gov. Forrest C. Donnell won in 1940.

The last Republican senator from Missouri was James P. Kem of Kansas City, who won in the Republican year of 1946.

The American party filed three candidates, including Gene Chapman who filed first as a Republican but changed his affiliation with charges that the party had sold out to Danforth. The other two Wallace party candidates are Ralph A. DePugh of Independence, father of the convicted Minuteman leader, could turn into a real swinger.

Congress to Eye Nerve Gas Disposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both houses of Congress will investigate the Pentagon's plan to ship 68 tons of deadly nerve gas to the Atlantic Ocean for dumping — a plan that includes emergency measures the Defense Department says will be unnecessary.

Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., said Friday representatives of the Army and departments of State, Interior and Welfare will be invited to testify beginning Monday before the House merchant marine subcommittee on oceanography.

Rogers was followed several hours later by Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., who announced his Senate oceanography subcommittee will begin hearings on the plan next Wednesday.

Less than a week later—about Aug. 10—a train will move out from Anniston, Ala., and another from Lexington, Ky., along unannounced routes no faster than 35 miles per hour toward the coast near Southport, N.C. There, according to the plan, 15,540 gas-filled rockets encased in 418 concrete coffins wrapped in steel will be loaded aboard a ship and carted out 280 miles off the Florida coast where the vessel will be scuttled.

The second train will start from the Blue Grass Army Depot near Lexington.

Hollings called the project "extremely important because of its potential threat to the safety and well-being of our citizens." He said he hopes to "find the facts and talk to the experts."

The Army says it will inform hospitals along the way to stock up on atropine, an antidote that has to be injected into a large muscle immediately after contact with the odorless, tasteless gas.

Contact with the gas can kill in less than two minutes without the atropine injection.

Last year the Pentagon backed down from a plan to ship several rail carloads of deadly World War I surplus gas from Colorado to New Jersey for dumping at sea. Public outcry generally was credited with convincing the Defense Department to destroy the gas chemically in Colorado.

MURDER RECORD

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago police department homicide unit reports the city is heading for an all-time record of more than 900 murders this year.

"We're now 92 murders ahead of this time last year," said Cmdr. John T. Cartan Jr., in predicting the highest yearly murder toll in the city's history in 1970. There were 716 murders in Chicago in 1969.

Cartan, 58, blamed "changing times" and a national trend to more violence for the sharp increase.

COUNTY CLERK

X Bob Kielhofner

Democratic Candidate

1. Voter Registration:

Last week a candidate in this primary election had returned to his address 500 letters that had been sent to whom he thought were registered voters in Scott County. The names on his mailing list were taken directly from the current list of registered voters on the books at Scott County's Courthouse. Another candidate used the county's official list of registered voters and had about the same number returned.

Some were deceased, some moved away, many forwarding addresses unknown.

2. County Financial Statement:

Every citizen of Scott County deserves the right to examine the annual financial statement submitted by various county officers and prepared for publication by the COUNTY CLERK, as required by law.

There are four legal newspapers in Scott County and (X) Bob Kielhofner, if elected your next County Clerk, intends to work out a satisfactory plan among the newspaper publishers and submit it to the Scott County Court for approval, so that the County's financial statement is published throughout Scott County each March as required by law.

3. Record Actions of County Court:

Mo. Statute 51.120 requires that "the County Clerk shall keep an accurate record of the orders, rules and proceedings of the Scott County Court and an alphabetical index of same."

In addition the County Clerk serves as secretary of the County Board of Tax Equalization. (X) Bob Kielhofner as your next County Clerk, will act faithfully, accurately and impartially in these matters and keep ALL THE PEOPLE informed on Scott County Court business.

1969 Annual Report Scott County Health Center

2nd in a series

VITAL STATISTICS
The 1970 preliminary figures for the population of Scott County were 32,892, or 144 more than in 1960. This is the number used in calculating rates for the year 1969. The estimated population used for rates in 1968 was 29,440. The actual population was probably higher. So the rate estimate at that time was also high.

Birth and death rates were figures per 1000 population. Infant and maternal mortality was determined per 100 live births. Diseases, accidents, homicides and suicides were based on 100,000 population.

BIRTHS IN 1969
White, Male, Delivered by: M.D. 242 Female 203. Non-White Male 23, Female 12. Delivered by: D. O. White Male 43, Female 42. Non-White Male 7, Female 2.

Delivered by: Midwives or others: White, Male 4, Female 1. Non-White, Male 15, Female 22. Totals: White Male, 289, Female 246. Non-White Male 45, Female 36.

Total Births: 616 Rate 18.72
Total White 535 Rate 17.73
Total Non-White 81 Rate 24.63
Provisional 1969 Mo. Rate 20.1

There was an increase of 25 white births in 1969, and 8 decreased of non-white.

There were 73 illegitimate children born in 1969 compared to 57 in 1968; 35 were white (18 in 1968) and 38 were non-white (39 in 1968).

Per. Ill. 1969 1968
Scott Co. 11.85% 9.6%
White 10.64% 3.6%
Non-White 41.65% 43.8%
Fourteen births were by cesarean section; eight of these were performed in Cape Girardeau; six in Sikeston.

PLACE OF DELIVERY
Hospital - White Number 455 Percent 85.05. Non-White Number 36, Percent 44.44.
Clinic White Number 75, Percent 14.02. Non-White, Number 8, Percent 9.88.

Home - White, Number 5, Percent .93. Non-White Number 37, Percent 45.68.

Because of Medicaid, more mothers were able to have hospital or clinic deliveries. Those delivered at home by the midwife were not eligible for Medicaid. A few, however, with Medicaid cards, still chose to have home deliveries with the midwife in attendance.

No woman delivered failed to have a serological test for syphilis during pregnancy.

New Census Trend Sees Cities Dip

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new statistical mural of a changing nation is emerging as the Census Bureau forges ahead in its count of an estimated 26 million people.

So far, the Bureau said Wednesday, 181,369,297 have been officially counted, but that figure is updated every day as more local offices close and report their totals to Washington.

Forty-two states are complete, at least in preliminary form, and five report fewer people than they did 10 years ago when the last Census was taken. The major change, however, is in the cities. Almost every report documents the flight of the population from the central cities to the suburbs.

Of the 44 areas reported so far, 18 central cities actually lost population, and most of the other 26 gained less than their surrounding suburbs.

Most major cities, and the largest of the states, except Texas, have not yet been completed. In New York City, for example, the bureau had difficulty finding enough enumerators to contact people who had not returned their forms by mail. Newark Mayor Kenneth Gibson went from door to door accompanied by reporters and photographers to dramatize the importance of the Census.

Of the completed states, population declines were shown in Mississippi, North Dakota, South Dakota, West Virginia and Wyoming.

St. Louis is the largest city for which preliminary figures are available, and it showed a decline to 608,078 from 750,026. Other large cities showing declines in the central city but increases in the suburbs are Milwaukee, Wis.; Birmingham, Ala.; and Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn.

The Census figures are important to both cities and states because they determine the number of congressmen each state gets as well as the outlines of congressional districts. In addition, they influence the pattern of federal aid in a myriad of programs.

Under the law, the Commerce Department must report the final figures to President Nixon by Dec. 1, although the Census bureau hopes to have an official tally by November this year.

Daily Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Mr. Blanton, Editor:

In a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees and Finance Committee, held on the 21st of July, 1970, a unanimous vote was cast against the Rock Festival which is to be held in Sikeston during the month of September. This we feel is a representation of our entire church. It was also agreed we send the following resolution.

In view of the lasting damage which such a festival would have upon Mississippi County, in view of the potential danger from too large a crowd, inadequate facilities and inadequate law enforcement to care for such a crowd, and in view of the moral and social problems that arise from illegal liquor and dope usage that accompany such events,

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that the Board of Trustees and Finance Committee of the First Church of God in East Prairie, Missouri, go on record as being opposed to said Rock Festival because of the need for higher moral standards and that such notice be given to the Officials of Scott County and Property Owner where said Festival is to be held, that said church is very much opposed to this type of assembly.

Club, a good place to meet travelers.

Kay's next problem is to get out of Manila without a passport. The solution comes when she meets Jeremy, an Englishman on holiday. He is based in Shanghai, a civilian pilot flying UNRRA supplies into China. She manages to persuade him to get her there. And in Shanghai she meets David, a smooth operator apparently engaged in all sorts of illegal deals, who is busy liquidating his assets before the Chinese take over.

There are times when the novel moves slowly, but it builds up gradually to a thorough account of the strange adventures of a beautiful young opportunist.

The heroine is such an adroit scamp that she engages the reader's sympathy.

Judge Voids Student Probation

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A federal judge has ruled Central Missouri State College cannot enforce a year's probation for three student leaders who had a part in circulating a petition calling for the resignation of the school president, Dr. Warren C. Lovinger.

The petition came before the Student Government Association at the school early this year. On April 3 the three were found guilty by a student personnel discipline committee of furnishing false information regarding the legitimacy of the petition.

The three students appealed to federal court after their probation was extended a year. Judge William R. Collison ruled Thursday that "no college could have a regulation that violated a student's constitutional rights" and emphasized that a student has the rights of petition and free speech under the U.S. Constitution.

The three students who asked injunctive relief against the school were Kenton Askren, Liberty; Steve Smith, Leeton; and Craig Casing, Sedalia. Askren was elected president of the student body.

Askren testified the matter of the petition came before the student group, Askren said, there was question whether the bill would have to have Lovinger's approval.

Askren said his stand was that it would not have to have Lovinger's approval because it was a petition and not a policymaking regulation. He said two faculty members present with the Student Government Association representatives as advisers made no comment when the question was raised. Lovinger testified he considered the bill improper as a violation of the Student Government Association. He agreed he made no effort to halt circulation of the petition but subsequently called it to the attention of the board of regents.

Missouri Mineral Wealth May Reach $520 Million

ROLLA — Missouri's mineral production may climb as high as $520 million or more by 1990 according to a 300+ page report released by the Missouri Geological Survey. The exhaustive study and forecast of the State's mineral production, which was completed last year, has just been published. It predicts that the leading commodities in 1990 (in order of value) will probably be lead, stone, cement, iron ore, coal, and lime.

Production for 1969 totaled $367,232,000. It now appears, say Survey spokesmen, that dollar value of mineral production may rise even more than anticipated by 1990 because of recent significant price increases in lead and other mineral commodities. The report indicates that Missouri's mineral economy will show a 65 percent increase from 1967 to 1975, reaching nearly $400 million in 1975. While this dollar estimate now appears to be too conservative in light of recent price increases, projected production quantities seem to be almost on target.

A major contribution to the overall knowledge of the State's extensive mineral resources, this new report, entitled Missouri Minerals -- Resources, Production, and Forecasts, required several years of work by the Survey's Mineral Resources Section. The result is a complete review of all the major minerals that have been produced in Missouri, resources that remain are outlined, and forecasts are made for future production up to 1990. This is done in such a manner that it should be very useful in State and Regional planning.

The first section of the report is a statewide analysis of Missouri's major minerals: barite, cement, clay and shale, coal, copper, iron ore, lead, lime, oil and gas, sand and gravel, industrial (silica) sand, silver, stone, and zinc. Tables and charts provide additional data on each mineral. The last part concentrates on separate analyses of minerals in each of Missouri's 20 Regional Planning Districts.

With detailed information such as this available in one publication, the mineral potential of the State can now be used for planning along with other considerations. This is vitally important, says Dr. William C. Hayes, State Geologist and Director of the Survey, since minerals will continue to be a significant element in Missouri's economy for a long time to come!

Authors of the report are Heyward M. Wharton, James A. Martin, Ardel W. Rueff, Charles E. Robertson, Jack S. Wells, and Eva B. Kisvarsanyi of the Missouri Geological Survey staff. Copies of Missouri Minerals -- Resources, Production, and Forecasts may be obtained for $2 each (postpaid). Send check or money order to Missouri Geological Survey, Box 250, Rolla, Mo. 65401.

Food Stamp Program Requested

POPLAR BLUFF — Members of the Butler County Court have requested permission to enter the Food Stamp Program and do away with Commodity Distribution in this county.

In a letter to Proctor N. Carter, Director, Division of Welfare, Jefferson City, members of the County Court stated: "This is to inform you that Butler County now requests permission to go to FOOD STAMP PROGRAM, doing away with Commodity Distribution in our county."

"Our county does not have sufficient funds to continue the distribution of surplus foods as it is now handled in this county."

The letter was signed by Presiding Judge Bob Jett, Judge Leonard B. Hanley of the Eastern District and Judge George Morrow of the Western District and County Clerk George H. Collins Jr.

Carter's reply stated: "I have your letter of July 20 asking that Butler County be considered for the Food Stamp Program. We will send your request to the U.S. Department of Agriculture."

"I wish to advise, however, that state funds are all committed for the program and we cannot take on any additional counties. As a matter of fact, four counties have been designated by the Secretary of Agriculture for the Stamp Plan but we are unable to start it in those counties. The counties designated are Greene, Howell, New Madrid and Buchanan."

County Clerk Collins said that under the requested Food Stamp Plan people desiring the stamps would have to be screened and approved by the Welfare Office before getting them. He said the program would be conducted at no cost to the county and added that presently $17,500 is budgeted by this county to conduct the commodity program.

Only persons entitled to the stamps would get them and they could be taken to any store and exchanged for food. The stamps would be obtained through local banks and would not be handled by the county.

Collins said that other county clerks were well pleased with the Food Stamp Program in their counties.

Mrs. Donald Rice, Gourmet Club member, Officers Wives Club, has provided us with the recipe for an elegant but simple-to-prepare dinner.

SHRIMP-SCAMPI
1 lb. cleaned, shelled, deveined shrimp

(defrost if frozen)
3/4 to 1 stick margarine
1/3 fresh cloves garlic, crushed, salt and pepper

Place shrimp in pan for broiling allowing margarine to cover the shrimp. Melt margarine in small frying pan and add the crushed garlic. Add salt and pepper. When all the margarine is melted, pour over shrimp.

Broil on both sides until tender. Do not overcook or shrimp will be tough. Serve! Accompany with baked potato and string bean salad. Bon Appetit!

Impeachment Threats Fail to Silence Unorthodox Douglas

By Editorial Research Reports

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Threats of impeachment must seem old hat to Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. As far back as 1953, an irate House member introduced a resolution demanding his impeachment for granting a stay of execution to Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the convicted atom spies. Nothing came of the attempt -- and observers predict a similar fate for the present impeachment maneuvers.

Douglas, now 71, has been a model of judicial non-conformity since President Franklin D. Roosevelt named him to the Supreme Court on March 20, 1939. He succeeded retiring Justice Louis D. Brandeis, an old hero and friend. Within a short time, Douglas emerged as the tribunal's most liberal member. The Justice's opinions -- often to the anger of conservatives in both parties -- insist that the essence of the Constitution is freedom of the individual.

But Douglas has stirred even more controversy by his activities off the bench -- and his private life -- than he has with his legal opinions. Perhaps a key to his views is found in a 1952 magazine article in which he wrote: "The times demand a renaissance in freedom of thought and freedom of writing, it attacks the expression, a renaissance that will end the orthodoxy that is threatening to divide us."

Anti-Douglas forces deny any political intent in the current impeachment threat. But liberals charge that conservatives are trying to get even for President Nixon's first two Supreme Court appointees: Justices Clement F. Haynsworth, Jr., and G. Harrold Carswell. Politics certainly played a considerable role in the last impeachment attempt against a Supreme Court member -- Justice Samuel Chase in 1804.

Angered at the conservative, Federalist-dominated judiciary engineered the charges against President Thomas Jefferson, Douglas considered the most vulnerable of the high court members. Jefferson was seeking freedom from the checks and balances system that resulted in the judicial review of the decisions of the executive and legislative branches of government. The impeachment attempt failed and one historical fact called it "one of the most signal events in the history of the federal judiciary."

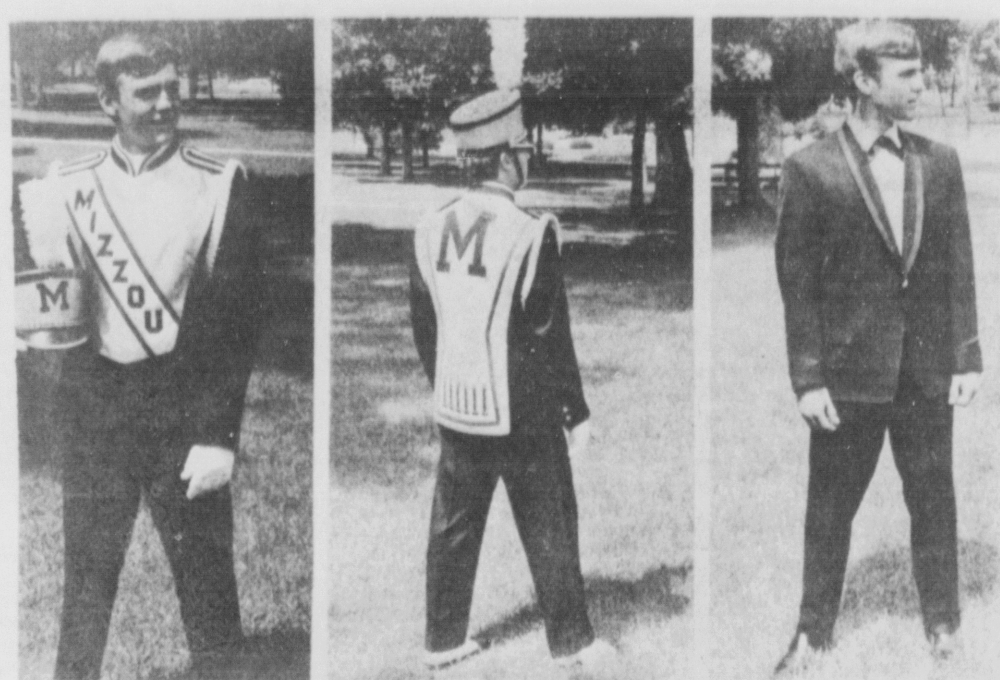

A little black book entitled "Points of Rebellion" which Justice Douglas published in February spurred the latest move against him. The book, which he wrote, "The times demand a renaissance in freedom of thought and freedom of writing, it attacks the Establishment and forecasts a young people's revolution "with a great risk of violence." Douglas warns: "We must realize that today's Establishment is the new George III. Whether it will continue to adhere to his tactics, we do not know. If it does, the redress, honored in tradition, is also revolution."

Infuriated, Douglas' congressional critics immediately seized upon the book as a weapon in their long-running campaign to get him off the bench. Rep. William L. Scott (R-Va.) described it as a "justification for revolt if the Government fails to submit to the dissenters."

And the book was added to the inquiry being made into the Justice's relations with the Parvin Foundation, recipient of considerable income from Las Vegas gambling interests. Douglas resigned as its president last May. Vice President Agnew has joined in the attack, saying the Justice's record should be "thoroughly examined."

Surveying the charges leveled at him, Justice Douglas might well resort to his own writings for a reply: "There is an ominous trend in the nation," he wrote 18 years ago. "We are developing a tolerance only for the orthodox point of view.... Orthodoxy normally has stood in the path of change."

TRADITION AND VERSATILITY are apparent in this one of 220 new uniforms to be worn for the first time this fall by the University of Missouri-Columbia's precision band Marching Mizzou. Designed by UMC band director Alexander Pickard, the uniforms combine traditional symbols of the band and the Columbia Campus -- a Gothic arch "M", the Columns and the name, MIZZOU -- with versatility. A musician can change from marching band dress to concert band tux by removing the overlay. Plume, gloves, shoulder cord and spats -- all in white -- set off the uniform. The overlay front is basically gold with white trim and the back is primarily white with gold trim. Both incorporate red accents. The uniforms replace those worn for 13 years by Marching Mizzou. They can be seen at Missouri's first home football game, Sept. 19 with Minnesota. A professional model was used.

that the world may learn that miracles come from God and not man.

Unbelieving modern ministers who reduce Bible miracles to natural phenomena are not unlike those egotists who believe that man performs his own miracles. They are like the rooster who thinks the sun comes up every morning just to hear him crow, and God describes them as: "Ungodly men, turning the grace of God into lasciviousness, and denying the only Lord God, and our Lord Jesus Christ."

much less. For example: He fed 5000 with five loaves and two fishes having left over twelve baskets full. Comparatively, when He fed only 4000, He began with seven loaves and a few fishes and had only seven baskets full remaining. Paul pictured this saying: "When I am weak, I am strong." With John the Baptist, God's people must say: "He must increase and I states if the animals, or hides, must decrease," and of Jesus were obtained illegally.

Christ, lost sinners must say: "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." God promises: "The blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin." Humbly believe and repent now!

U.S. Looks Seedy, Its TV Boring

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Four trips to continental Europe in a short span of years give me some basis for comparisons with life in the United States. Hard as it is to say, this country does not come off very well.

Possibly my judgments would be taken as more profound if I were writing some sort of farewell to Europe after a stay of 5 to 10 years. I really don't think it matters all that much.

What struck me first, on my most recent return, was--with important exceptions--the incredible amount of man-made ugliness in America. Residential housing, mostly in the swollen suburbs, too often has the look of a spreading plague of unimaginatively assembled brick and stone.

Our cities, not least this basically beautiful capital, are despoiled by the litter of the uncaring. No doubt everybody is sick and tired of hearing about the beer can bit. But it is a ringing point with me, since I find half a dozen or more new discards across the street from my house at least several times a week.

Note, by the way, how much is said about the beer can as "litter," and how little of the fact that it lights your way along automobile roadways. There must be one hell of a lot of drinking in cars. We do hear from the safety groups that intoxication plays a large role in accidents. But what about two-handed attention to driving? What is Ralph Nader after, a rolling, crashproof bar and restaurant?

Television gives you another quick hang-up when you get back from abroad. Not that Europeans are not big on it. They surely are. But here we are hammered over the head with the stuff.

Compelled to listen to the news, tantalized by the thought I might miss something, I found myself driven wild by television's performance in the days after my return. There came Walter Cronkite to boast that his network's Washington affiliate offered 90 straight minutes of news in the evening. Ninety minutes, indeed.

Obviously, you get some hard nuggets of news (a big plane crash at Toronto, etc.) But you can do no less than gag on the endless repetition.

And much of the first-hand stuff from across America and around the globe makes only a loose, impressionistic but or an Israeli fire base in the Sinai desert. Information? Yes, in an intensive, cluttering kind of cascade. Depth of knowledge? Precious little.

Much of what goes on in politics is either boringly monotonous, or boringly controversial.

We truly have an immensely beautiful country. But, all aside from ravaging it by gouging and polluting, we have moved to render large parts of it commonplace.

Even our young rebels who, by their wild dress, pronounce their withdrawal from this deadening business, in fact contribute to it. For they have managed to make differences of attire so infinite that they have made difference itself a kind of smothering conformity.

Troop 33 Has Honor Count

CHARLESTON — Members of Boy Scout Troop 63 held a court of honor July 17 in the Meyer chapel of the Methodist church, with Kent Sutherland and Tad Story advancing to the rank of Life Scouts.

Sutherland is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sutherland, and Story is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Story.

Advancing to Star was Tom Putnam, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Putnam.

The only other advancement was by Joel Day, who was promoted to second class Scout. Presiding at the Court of Honor were Troop 33 Scoutmaster Dr. Carter Fenton and his assistants Glenn Ault, Jr., Cliff Banta Jr. and Jack Burke Jr.

Forty merit badges were also presented to 10 of the troop members.

On Sunday morning, July 19, 14 members of the troop left Charleston for a week at Camp Lewallen on Lake Wappapello, returning home on July 25. Those making the trip included: Junior DeLay, Tom Putnam, Lee Roy Cates, Charles Baker, Bryant DeField, Joel Day, Kent Sutherland, Tim Morrow, Tad Story, Bill French, Frank Quertemous, Scott Frazier and Randy Casey.

One of World's Distance Trains Crosses Angola in Two Days

By DAVID J. PAINE
Associated Press Writer
LOBITO, Angola (AP) —
The whistle of the big steam locomotive shrieks in the chilly semi-dark.

Two hundred yards along the track three soldiers in camouflage uniforms push their G3 automatic rifles ahead of them into the small armored railcar and clamber stiffly aboard. Two are white, one is black.

The short stocky civilian driver follows them, swinging the heavy door shut with a reverberating clang. He starts the engine with an ignition key, puts it into gear and slides smoothly away.

Behind them, on the platform, troops of people break up as travelers board the train.

Another shrill whistle, and one of the world's famous long distance trains pulls slowly out of the station at Teixeira de Sousa into the plateau dawn.

In its prime it was "The Belgian Train" of the Companhia do Caminho de Ferro de Benguela (Benguela Railway), carrying expatriates from the copper mines in the then Belgian Congo to the coast on the first leg of their journey home to Europe.

For four days the train wound across the highlands of central Africa, passing from the Congo into Portuguese Angola and down the mountains to the Atlantic port of Lobito, where a ship lay waiting. Belgians looking forward to long leave in their home country relaxed in the old-fashioned comfort of an old-fashioned train.

The old days are gone.

The frontier between Angola and an independent Congo has been closed for several years. Freight trains still cross the border, although each country provides locomotives and crews for its own territory. But the passenger terminus now is Teixeira de Sousa, eight miles from the Congolese frontier. The journey has become a two-day one, 830 miles from one side of Angola to the other.

Relations between white-ruled Angola and the black state of the Congo (Kinshasa) are not good. African nationalist guerrillas based in the Congo slip across the border to raid Angolan targets, sometimes the railway itself.

Despite this, quiet negotiations are underway to resume passenger rail traffic between the two countries. The route to Elisabethville may be reopened.

From Teixeira de Sousa the train travels west, away from the rising sun across the almost featureless flats at an altitude of more than 3,000 feet above sea level.

Two miles ahead of it runs the armored railcar, only 13 feet long but capable of resisting a guerrilla attack and surviving a mine blast. Its controls are like those of a car, with four gears and clutch, brake and accelerator on the floor.

STEAMING across the plateau of central Angola, the former "Belgian Train" of the Benguela Railway pulls into one of the many loops, so that a train going in the opposite direction can pass.

Seated beside the driver are two of the soldiers. All three peer ahead through roughly triangular openings in the double-width armor plating. Weapons are kept close at hand, because a guerrilla attack can come at any time.

With its short wheelbase, the railcar offers a jerky and noisy ride as it clatters over the joints between the rails. On long rises the driver slows to a halt and waits until an assistant watching back along the line calls out that the train hasn't disappeared after all, it's just come into view.

There is only one track and loops are frequent to allow east-bound trains to pass. At each one the railcar stops and the driver telephones his progress to railway and military authorities.

As the train steams slowly into the loop, passengers jump down to stretch their legs.

If it is a refueling stop, some of them wander to the front of the train to watch African laborers. This is an all-night stop. To guard loading roughly hewn lengths of against sabotage and attacks no eucalypt timber into the tender. Locomotives were converted from zone at night.

There is no platform, just a Angola's lack of coal. Huge eucalyptus plantations, containing First and second-class passengers an estimated 85 million trees, flank the rail track at frequent intervals.

At midday comes the first big stop, Luso. This flat, dusty town is the military headquarters for the eastern zone of Angola. From here the war against hit-and-run African guerrillas penetrating from Zambia and Katanga is directed.

Two extra carriages are added to the train for troops who have just finished a year's service in the war zone. The soldiers are light-hearted, happy to be leaving the war.

On rumbles the train, often at little more than walking pace. Patches of sun-bleached corn and manioc slide past. No animals and very few Africans are seen, unless the train happens to be passing a village.

It's not like the early days of the century, when a hippopotamus would sprawl lazily on the track or the driver would stop the train if he spotted game so the passengers could go hunting.

Night already has fallen when the train pulls into Munhango. This is an all-night stop. To guard loading roughly hewn lengths of against sabotage and attacks no eucalypt timber into the tender. Locomotives were converted from zone at night.

There is no platform, just a Angola's lack of coal. Huge eucalyptus plantations, containing First and second-class passengers wander along the station, glancing through the windows of the third and fourth-class carriages where Africans are packed in on wooden seats. In one an aged African with a pet parrot perched on his head talks to two soldiers.

Drifting across the still night air is the clamor from a beerhall 100 yards away. Most of its occupants are troops in an exuberant, lubricated mood.

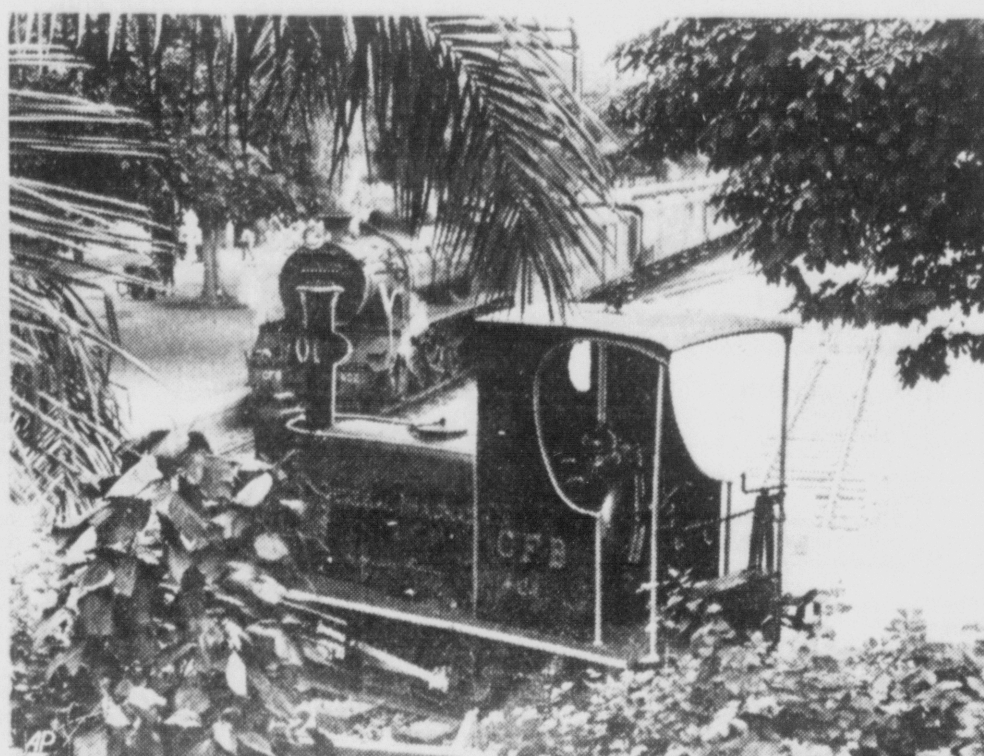

Half a dozen soldiers lock the door to the tiny station office and stretch out their bedrolls inside. Before it is light on the second day, the train moves off again.

Passengers in the first-class carriages roll out of the narrow bunks and run water into foldaway hand-basins by pressing buttons marked "Push." The footpedal in the toilet bears the words "Depress to flush." The words are in English, though not one passenger in a dozen reads or speaks English. Virtually all Benguela Railway's rolling stock was bought from Britain and the locos and passenger carriages are so old they have been out of production for years.

Benguela Railway was formed in 1903 with the idea of providing an outlet for the mineral wealth of Katanga. British-owned Tanganyika Concessions Limited, one of the giants of the African colonial era, has retained its original

THE IMPACT OF THE CENSUS ON MISSOURI
COMMUNITIES

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — If community leaders in Missouri appear unusually elated or downcast over preliminary 1970 census results, it is because so much depends on population.

For example, local head-counts directly determine state gas tax allocations totaling almost $2 million each month.
They also affect state assistance to public libraries; text book money for public schools; local ability to maintain existing services and facilities through resident taxpayers; and local representation in the state legislature.

Other factors closely related to the number of persons claimed by a community include one which, while perhaps not critical, is the one mentioned first by veteran government officials— liquor by the drink.
Statutes forbid the sale of liquor in incorporated cities which drop below 20,000 until a special election can be held to let the voters decide whether or not it will be retained. Several cities already have requested opinion on this issue, according to the attorney general's office.

But there are more fundamental factors linked to population: money distributed by the State Department of Education to school district;
decisions by state highway planners; and site selections by industries and merchandisers for relocation or expansion.

Even federal programs use population figures to help determine how much assistance will go to multi-county regions, metropolitan areas and individual cities.

The state of Missouri has been using the 1960 census as a basis for the division of the motor tax fuel fund among 780 incorporated cities for the past 10 years. But, unofficial census figures show a marked decline in St. Louis -- from 750,000 to 608,000 -- which will reduce its share of gas tax money next year, while Columbia and Springfield grew and can expect bigger payments out of the fund.

Annual grants to public libraries also are "tied directly to gross population," according to Charles O'Halloran, state
librarian. In the 44 counties
north of the Missouri River, 32
lost population and it is in this area, O'Halloran said, where
"a good many libraries are going to lose state aid."

libraries also are "tied directly to gross population," according to Charles O'Halloran, state
librarian. In the 44 counties
north of the Missouri River, 32
lost population and it is in this area, O'Halloran said, where
"a good many libraries are going to lose state aid."

"The library boards aren't likely to dismiss staff members," O'Halloran said. "So the result probably will be lower budgets for books, records, films and so forth... Although state aid only accounts for about 4 percent of any library's total expenditures, it does make a difference."

Much more sizable payments are made to public schools by the Department of Education for free textbooks. John W.
Albert of the division of public school directors, said the money (which totals about $10 million annually) is distributed on a per-pupil basis. Here again, communities which continue to lose families will forfeit a slice of state aid.

The impact of population shifts has hardest, perhaps, in the local assessor's office. Hugh Denney, associate professor of regional and community affairs at the University of Missouri, said cities and counties drained
by a steady outflow of people become paralyzed by a dwindling tax base.

As assessed valuation drops, municipal improvements are cancelled "and the costs of existing services go up for those who remain," he said.

At the same time, Denney noted, "their voices in legislative halls become less and less audible." Reapportionment rewards healthy suburban areas with one or two more legislators, but the interests of declining
rural counties, as well as St.
Louis, may fall by the wayside if they keep losing representatives every 10 years, he said.

Population fluctuations also affect the amount of aid to public schools. State payments depend mainly on a school district's student enrollment and assessed valuation.

Delmar Cobble, deputy commissioner of the division of public schools, said the shrinking counties in north Missouri have had to do "considerable reorganization, merging districts, to maintain their schools." In the Bootheel, Pemiscot County, which formerly had 13 districts

"now has six, but should have only two," Cobble said.

Growth clusters naturally attract the attention of the State highway department.

One planning engineer,
Clifton Jett, said route selections for new primary roads and decisions to widen old roads are made on the basis of "needs" indicated by traffic counts and origin-destination studies.
Communities with high residential concentrations or industrial complexes generate traffic, they "need" more access routes, so they pull highway construction into their range, Jett said, while declining communities cannot support new roads.

Fortunately, a large number of "new industries have been located outside metropolitan areas," says Earl Cannon, research director for the Division of Commerce and Industrial Development.

"We don't have anything showing that high population definitely attracts all commercial enterprises," he said. "I do know these that are market oriented-- that is, consumer oriented-- will consider this very heavily. But those that are resource oriented-- the factories-- pay less attention to population."

Thus, the last five years have been a $200, million aluminum facility located near New Madrid, 16 new industries near Sedalia, a dozen in Joplin, five in Kennett, five in Rolla, and so on. In 1968, there were 153 out-of-state industries which located in Missouri and 85 of that number located in non-metropolitan areas.

But activity still remains slightly more subdued in northern central, southern central and western central counties.

THE PILGRIM FATHERS

government!!! The founding fathers who wrote into the Constitution the separation of church and state had no thought of the nation being non-Christian, but recognized fully the supremacy of the Christian influence which gave birth to the constitution. Both John Locke, the philosopher of the American Revolution, and Samuel Adams, the father of the Revolution,
were pronounced in their Christian emphasis.

The Christian influence patriotism. It rests upon a feeling of mingled gratitude, pride, and humility at the

The seven warning signals are:

- 1
Unusual bleeding or discharge.
- 2
A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
- 3
A sore that does not heal.
- 4
Change in bowel or bladder habits.
- 5
Hoarseness or cough.
- 6
Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
- 7
Change in size or color of a wart or mole.

If you have a warning signal, it doesn't necessarily mean you have cancer. You probably don't. But if your symptoms last longer than two weeks it pays to do the smart thing and see your doctor.

Looking Back

Charlie Purtle Family Moving
From Nashville To Sikeston

50 years ago August 3, 1920 Charlie Purtle and sons, who have been living at Nashville, Tenn., came last Thursday to make Sikeston their home again. Mrs. Purtle and daughter, Hazel, will join Mr. Purtle and sons later.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. J.R. McKinney Tuesday, a daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Green Lescher left Wednesday night for New York City, where they will make their home.

Mrs. Moffat Wallace and children will leave this week for Memphis, Tenn., where they will join Mr. Wallace and make their home. Everett Dye and family have rented the house vacated by Mr. Wallace and family.

40 years ago Charleston-G. W. Fowlkes, aged 81 years, a prominent citizen of this city, died Monday evening at his home, following a few hours of illness due to being over heated. His condition was not thought to be serious and his sudden death came as a shock to the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Cunningham, who have been occupying the home of Mrs. Emma Kendall, have returned to the home of Mrs. Frank Sikes.

A score of 58 for 18 holes won the coveted gold fall cigarette lighter and the Friday night tournament for Pete Cunningham on the miniature links. Mrs. Dorothy Matthews and Mrs. Ranney Applegate tied for first place in the women's division with scores of 72. Mrs. Matthews won the playoff.

Lynn Swaim returned from Chicago Saturday and will be employed here in the Hotel Marshall barber shop.

30 years ago August 3, 1940

The Missouri Aeronautical Institute, Inc., will be completed and equipped except for the army planes and equipment by August 15, it was announced Monday at the airport.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Wilson July 29, at their home, south of town. The child has been named Mary Vernice.

What may have been the record temperature of the Middle West was registered Monday afternoon by Harry Young, government observer, who recorded 111 degrees in the sweltering heat.

George Mouser, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Mouser of this city, who has been assistant manager of the Four Flags Hotel at Niles, Mich., the past three years, has accepted a similar position with the Hotel Hoffman at South Bend, Ind.

20 years ago August 3, 1950

Stork Club. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Stricker of Charleston Saturday night at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Mrs. Ida Mae Coleman, 68, of Sikeston died suddenly at her home yesterday.

The sale of the Waggener-McCord Coal Co., by Bob McCord to Bill Swacker, was announced today by Mr. Swacker. The sale was effective July 24 and the firm will do business officially as the McCord Coal Co.

The Ideal Repair Shop, located on Highway 60 west, is now owned and operated solely by John Harden and Tommy Gillian, who yesterday purchased the interest of Floyd Deal in the business.

Candice Lee Hampton celebrated her second birthday yesterday afternoon with a party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hampton, 810 Ruth Street.

Judith Lee Sidwell, who was three years old Tuesday, celebrated her birthday with a lawn party in the afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W.M. Sidwell.

Tommy Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. C.T. Howard, jr., is recovering from injuries suffered when he fell Monday and broke his arm.

popularity charts. Their albums have a more than healthy sale and they are currently putting their sixth together, "Golden Grass VI." Their current album, high on the charts is "Leaving It All Behind."

They have strong feelings about most things. "One of the things that really gets to us is the runaway kids we see on our tours, the real young ones," Warren said. "Things may be tough at home, but they're a lot worse knocking around, going nowhere. They're sad."

They have strong feelings about out involvement in Vietnam.

"Once we were invited to play at a party at the White House," Warren said, "but we declined the invitation. We would very much like to have done it but it was our way of protesting the war. Maybe not much of one, but our way."

In their folk-rock bag they've evidently tapped the right vein. "One of the reasons," explains Bob, "is that all of us write music. We'll bring in something we've written, then kick it around, play with it and only decide to do it when we've all agreed it is what we want to do."

The group is rounded out by Rick Coonce who they call "the heartbeat" of the group. He's been playing drums since he got his first set of traps when he was 12. Dennis Provisor is the keyboard man who graduated with a B.A. in Merchandising from college and has been merchandising music ever since.

"Lately," Warren told us, "we've added a fifth man, Terry Furlong, on guitar. He seems to be fitting in well with the rest of the group and we feel he's adding to our total sound."

When they are accused of doing "bubblegum" music they shrug it off. "We don't care what people call our music. It's what we want to do and if they enjoy it that's what counts. We've gotten an average of one gold record each year since 'Let's

Under Twenty

THE GRASS ROOTS have what it takes

By Kurt Lassen

It takes a lot of something to stay on top for four years, especially on the pop music scene. For a group it takes guys who get along. For anyone it takes a lot of talent and a firm belief that that talent is right. All of these ingredients fit The Grass Roots who have been making it big since they found each other in Los Angeles four years ago.

We talked to Warren Entner and Bob Grill, two of The Grass Roots. If there is a leader, which the boys say there isn't it would probably be Warren. "I think what's kept us together, besides the fact that we get along real well, is that we manage ourselves. We don't have an outside manager and we all decide together what we are going to do and when we are going to do it," Warren told us. The boys had just left a long recording session but were animated, excited and enthusiastic about anything they talked about.

One of their favorite subjects was college audiences. "We dig them and they seem to dig us. They're enthusiastic, they listen and we almost always get a big ovation when we've finished playing for them."

Their credentials for success in recording read pretty well, too. In four years they have had 12 of their singles in the top twenty or better on the

If You Were The Judge
Haircuts in Order
For Football Team

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Podunk University issued its first call for football candidates. The turnout consisted of mod men who, to the coach, looked like mad men. With an abundance of hair on their faces as well as their heads, instead of a wall of granite, the forward line looked like a herd of sheep dogs.

The result? A rule was passed requiring all male athletes to be neat and clean-shaven and to have their hair out of eyes and trimmed above the ears. Otherwise, no athletics.

"The rule is unconstitutional," protested the athletes. "It's an arbitrary attempt to force us to change our looks for the sake of playing in a few games over a short period of time."

"There's nothing arbitrary about it," was the answer. "With hair in your eyes, how are you supposed to see where you're going? Athletic programs provide an opportunity for the development of discipline, teamwork and individual sacrifice. Cutting hair, is just one of the sacrifices that must be made."

Refusing to cut away the shrunken, the athletes challenged the validity of the rule in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you require the mod men to undergo the scissors?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that, considering the circumstances, the rule was not an effort to impose discipline for the sake of discipline and conformity alone; that the rule was a legitimate and reasonable means of building discipline and team spirit. (Based upon a 1970 United States District Court Decision)

ANY PERCH will do during a rest stop. A soldier of the U.S. 9th Division on duty near Tan An, South Vietnam, makes do with a tombstone during a break in the weary business of war that goes on lull or no lull.

Live For Today,' our first hit."

Warren, being somewhat philosophic, said, "It's been a hard-working four years for us. I guess we'll stay with it for another year and a half or two. We're managing our affairs well and we'll switch our efforts from music to business."

The odds are, though, that whatever business they choose, should they pack up their instruments, won't be very far from the music scene.

ESSAY WINNER

CHAMPAGNE, Ill. (AP) — A 17-year-old's essay titled "A New Way to Educate Americans" was among winners in a local newspaper essay contest.

Jerry Gorman, a student at Central High School, said, "I have not yet come to grips with the solutions of our national problems; however, I don't believe many of my elders have either."

He said the power structure is

O'Brien Nixes
Shriver's 'Help'

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Aided by supporters whose identity and number are still ill-defined, the ambitious Sargent Shriver, Kennedy brother-in-law and former ambassador to France, has just run through a baffling mission worthy of the label "How to Damage the Democratic Party by Really Trying."

The operation surfaced June 3, when in late afternoon an announcement made the rounds, via a limited quota of duplicated copies, that Senate-House leaders were asking Shriver to head a new National Council for Congressional Leadership.

The group was to be independent of existing Democratic organizations. It was to raise its own money and help candidates with speeches, research materials, speakers and campaign advice.

It was quickly discovered that Democratic leaders whose names were used knew nothing of this proposal. They simply had agreed it was a good idea to use Shriver's obvious platform charms in the 1970 campaign.

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien was infuriated that night when advised in New York of the move, of which he had no prior notice. Next day he issued a blistering statement declaring the council unacceptable as both repetitive of existing effort and likely to siphon off funds badly needed by the debt-ridden Democratic National Committee.

The whole story is full of odd twists and loose ends. It is worth reciting some of these to show how a major party, struggling to come back, can be upset by a kind of "Operation Undercut" that caught all prominent leaders with mouths agape.

Shriver's own role, from weeks back, is mystifying. Early in April he sought a date for a personal chat with O'Brien. He got one for April 13. But his secretary never confirmed it and he never showed.

On May 27 House Majority Leader Carl Albert and Sen. Daniel Inouye of Hawaii, who heads his party's Senatorial Campaign Committee, discussed with O'Brien the notion of using Shriver on the circuit. The chairman was for it, but no new organization was mentioned.

That same day, House majority leader Carl Albert and Sen. Daniel Inouye of Hawaii, who heads his party's Senatorial Campaign Committee, discussed with O'Brien the notion of using Shriver on the circuit. The chairman was for it, but no new organization was mentioned.

O'Brien never heard another word until his aides told him that night a week later that the council was announced. O'Brien's written response was prepared early June 4. Then it was run past every Democratic Hill leader. Not one objected to its hard tone.

Where, then, was the unsettling proposal really born?

Probably with Shriver and his own advisers, using as a base the law office of Myer Feldman, former Kennedy Johnson White House aide.

"Maintained by a subtle brainwashing of the young. Until America realizes this problem and strives to achieve a free educational system, we cannot call America the democracy it is supposed to be."

He said a new system must be established in order to break the doldrums of the traditional, "narrow-minded American thinking."

He said in a new educational process, the individual is given more responsibility and freedom. "He becomes a learner, not of facts, but of a way of thinking for himself."

POLLY'S POINTERS

Here Are Good Hints On Care of Bathing Suits

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—My Pointers are for the general care of bathing suits and come from a friend who works for a bathing suit firm. Hope they help others as they have helped me.

After each wearing, rinse suit in pure SOAP or that liquid that is for cold water washing of woollens. A suit does not need ironing which could be harmful to it unless the fabric is all cotton. Wringing is harmful to many suits, so roll the clean suit in a bath towel to blot excess water. Hang up to dry, away from the heat or sun. Do not put in an automatic dryer unless the suit is 100 per cent cotton and made with a simple line and dart bra. All bathing suits are washable, so do not dry clean or spot clean with a dry-cleaning agent.

The correct way to put on a one-piece suit is not to step in and then yank. Roll suit down to widest opening and then step in. Gently pull up to waist so the waist-down portion is fitted. Then pull suit rest of the way up. Bend over and fit yours into built-in bra and adjust straps.

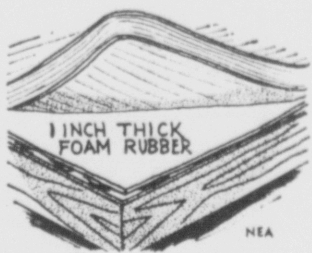

The best way to keep a suit in shape between wearings is to fold it over a hanger in the closet. If it must be folded in a drawer, be sure to do this neatly and not stuff it in.—MRS. D. R. V.

Polly's note—Carefully read and save the instruction tag that comes on your suit for the correct washing procedure.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have used so many of the Pointers and now have a problem that I am sure some of the readers can help me solve. I braided old nylon hose to make a rug. After the braids were sewed together it looked like a hat even before it was half-finished. Please, someone tell me how I can make this rug lay flat. I have started over twice and had to rip it apart each time.—REBA

DEAR POLLY—A simple solution to Kathy's problem of the sliding mattress is to put a one-inch-thick foam rubber pad (size of the bed or a bit smaller) between the springs and mattress. This will hold it in place. We also use them in our camper to keep the mattresses on the couch and beds in place. Such pads can be bought in most department stores.—VIONA

DEAR POLLY—Kathy could keep her mattress from slipping on the springs by placing a sheet blanket between them or she might use a mattress cover over the springs. Others is not a box spring.—E. D.

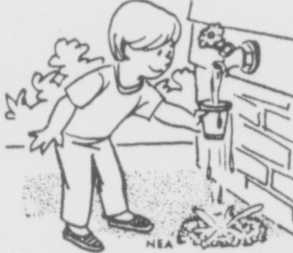

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Mrs. D. H. how I keep track of the right tops for my plastic bowls. I put the lid for the largest one on the shelf under that bowl, then the lid for the next size goes inside the first bowl and the bowl on top of the lid. I stack several this way and always have the proper lid just beneath the bowl.—MRS. B. L.

DEAR POLLY AND Mrs. D. H.—I have developed the following system for finding the proper lids for plastic bowls: Assemble all bowls and lids on the table and cover each bowl with the proper lid. Use bright nail polish to mark each container and its lid with corresponding identifying marks. I use numerals—putting a "1" on matching pieces and so on. I store all the lids in a rectangular loaf-sized dish and stack the containers. It is a simple matter to match lid "2" with bowl "2".—MRS. M. J. K.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I would like to dry some of my summer flowers for later use in arrangements. I have heard of using cornmeal and borax for this process but do not know the required amounts of each. I do hope someone can tell me what proportions to use.—LORETTA

DEAR POLLY—Mud holes under outdoor faucets can be prevented if you remove the soil directly under the spout and fill in the area with gravel. This is a big help where small children play in the yard and turn on the water faucet to get drinks.—SALLY

DEAR POLLY—I am interested in Kathy's Pointer for making a barbecue grill with a wheelbarrow, coat hangers and a cake rack. I do think there should be a word of warning to those who might be tempted to use old refrigerator racks, which I believe are coated with a substance to make them rust-resistant and they could contaminate the food.—MARGARET

COMMON MARKET AND OTHER FOREIGN COMPETITION

My experience to date has been that in previous negotiations, my type goods have received no concessions, but duty into this country has been considerably reduced. Your attention is called to copies of USA and foreign ads below. By what legerdemain can American firms produce at comparable costs, when they pay the "cleaner of the Jon" more than a foreign competitor pays its technical employees with University Degrees? How long before all American R & D is done across the water? Attention also called to fact those officials who expect USA firms to compete on an unequal basis, have themselves, increased their own staff costs by as much as 5 times in last 10 years. And almost every piece of legislation they propose increases someone's costs. At the same time, by excessive taxation, the American producer is expected to continue to support all branches of government in the extravagances to which they have become accustomed. Lets have some common sense in our governments actions.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

SPLIT-ENTRY RANCH HOUSE — This house offers the price conscious owner many possibilities. He and his family can live on the upper floor in a self-contained layout, and can rent the lower floor apartment, which is laid out with three and one-half rooms and has its own entrance. Or, for a large family, the lower floor can be developed into additional rooms, or used as a medical suite, dividing the space to suit the doctor's needs.

The main floor basically is a simple rectangle, with the entrance foyer leading to all rooms. The kitchen is large enough to seat the family for informal dining, and off the kitchen is a balcony which is convenient for outside dining. To the right of the entrance foyer are three bedrooms with two baths. Plan HA 656P, was designed by architect Samuel Paul, 89-30 161st Street, Jamaica, N. Y. 11432
